School spirit shines during homecoming week

Homecoming past vs. present

By ISAAC SUMPTION
FASD Journalism

Homecoming has been a high point of fall for generations of Frederick Area students, but how it is celebrated has changed over the years.

Frederick alum Stephanie Sumption said that back in her high school days, each class would put on skits for entertainment during homecoming. Also, after the coronation ceremony, the students of Frederick High would have a bonfire to celebrate the school's homecoming week. Another tradition for the students was going around town and decorating buildings with school spirit and slogans.

Conversations in the field

About 30 people gathered for a field day on Aug. 28 to learn about the farming practices of Mikkonen Organic Farms. The day included talks from several speakers, a bus tour of the farm and fields, and a meal served at St. Paul's Lutheran in Frederick. Ease the back-to-school jitters

BY ASHLEY SCHMIDT
Frederick Area Counselor

COUNSELOR'S CORNER

Back to school time can be rough on kids and parents! After spending summer with family, the transition back to school can feel like you're starting all over, even if your child isn't new to the back to school routine.

Try some of these tips to ease the back-to-school anxiety and fear:

- Check your feelings at the door. If you are really nervous or scared to drop your child off at school, your child will feel it too. Find time to express your feelings separately.
- Make your good-byes quick. Long and repeated good-bye rituals can prolong your child's fear about you leaving them at school. A hug, kiss, and "have a good day" are all your child needs to start their day.
- Be careful about saying "I'll miss you." While this sounds loving, it may cause your child to feel worried about you, instead of focusing on their school day. You might say "I can't wait to hear about your day later" or "I'll see you at dinner time" instead.

- Write your child an encouraging note. Packing a short note in your child's lunchbox or backpack can give them something to look forward to.
- Avoid walking your child in after the first week. There will be opportunities for you to come into their classroom, but your child needs to know they can do it on their own.

Set up your child for success: Get them to school regularly

BY JESSICA RINGGENBERG
Frederick Area K-8 Principal

PRINCIPAL'S CORNER

Frederick Area School is in full swing, and we are excited about the year ahead! A lot of time has been spent this summer preparing for students' arrival. No matter how much we prepare, though, we cannot improve academics without students here to teach. September is Attendance Awareness Month. As children grow older and more independent, families play a key role in making sure students get to school safely every day. Developing a family culture that encourages good attendance is so important for success in school and in life.

Showing up for school has a huge impact on a student's academic success, starting in kindergarten and continuing through high school. Students who miss school regularly fall into two categories: truant or chronically absent. Truancy is a legal issue in which students are not attending school as required by law. Chronically absent, however, is when a student misses 10 percent or more of school days (no matter the reason). In our school calendar, this means students missing more than 15 days of school for the year.

Studies show that only 17 percent of K-3 students who are chronically absent are able to meet reading proficiency scores in third grade! By sixth grade, chronic absence is a proven early warning sign for students at risk for dropping out of school. By ninth grade, attendance can predict graduation rates better than eighth grade standardized test scores! It's simple: Being at school increases the likelihood of school success. Many learning opportunities are missed when a student is regularly absent and cannot be made up by just "doing the homework." In the world of college entry, scholarships, and program placement, attending school is the easiest way to give your child the boost they need to stay competitive.

We realize some absences are unavoidable. Here are a few tips to help families maintain regular school attendance:

- Make sure students have a bedtime and morning routine. Schedules and consistency allow students to develop independence, as they know what comes next.
- Ensure your student goes to school every day unless he/she is truly sick. Sometimes it is more nerves than illness; visiting about what is happening in school regularly may help.
- Avoid scheduling vacations or doctor appointments during school hours.
- Talk with your child and his/her teachers if your child is feeling anxious about coming to school. Everyone likes to have a support system. Who does your child have at school that they can go to when needed?
- Visit with your child about school and why it is important to attend.

I am excited to be working with your children throughout the year, and thank you for your partnership in getting them to school. If you have any concerns, please reach out to myself, teachers, or other staff. We want to make this year a great one for all!

Future of F.Y.I., Finn Fest, Snow Queen in question

What would the community look like without this F.Y.I. newsletter, without Midsummer's Finn Fest, or even a Snow Queen?

These and other services, events, and activities organized and sponsored by Frederick Forward are potentially coming to an end without people who can step up and help. The number of active members has dwindled over the years, and recently the bulk of its volunteer efforts have been done by just a few people. And now one of those stalwarts is stepping down: Krysti Mikkonen, who was a founding member of Frederick Forward and most recently serving as its president, is turning her focus to other things.

Frederick Forward is a community and economic development organization that is the activator behind a number of visible events and strategies in the Frederick area. The activities of the organization are designed to support the community's residents, school, and businesses to help keep them engaged, informed, and proud to be part of the community. The ultimate goal is not only to retain existing residents but also attract new ones, which keeps the heartbeat of the community going and our school's and businesses' doors open.

Anyone who is willing to step up to serve, who has ideas to share, or even who just wants to talk through possibilities is invited to attend the next Frederick Forward meeting at 7 p.m. Monday, Sept. 30 at Titan's Bar & Grill. Unless solutions are found at that meeting, the group is likely to move forward with disbanding.

Booster Club starts a new year

The Frederick Area Booster Club held its first meeting Sept. 9. The group reviewed past activities and planned for future ones, including reviving the Fall Fun Fest.

If you weren't able to make it, you are welcome to join them next time. The club hosts fun events and gives gifts to students and staff members. Everyone (parents, grandparents, community members, etc.) is welcome to join in the planning, volunteering, or donating. The next meeting is at 6:30 p.m. Monday, Oct. 7, in the school cafeteria.

CROSS COUNTRY

Team has history of success

BY JAKE KENSER, HAYDN PODOLL, AND KAYLIN ACHEN
FASD Journalism

In the world of high school athletics, cross country is often overshadowed by other fall sports. However, there has been no shortage of success for the Frederick cross country team under Coach Janelle Barondeau, who is in her 17th year of coaching.

In the past two seasons, Brooke Podoll (2018) and Trevor Sumption (2017) qualified for the state meet.

From 2002-11, the cross country program sent at least one runner to the state meet each season. Many of those years multiple runners competed, with the most being eight going to state in both 2005 and 2010. The highest finish at state was Kelsea Barondeau, who earned seventh place in 2004. Mikayla Barondeau made four appearances at state, and Shari Elsen made five.

The cross country program has undergone many changes over the last 18 years. From 2002-08, Frederick had a co-op with Leola with the first three years, competing at the Class B level and the next four bumping up to Class A. The co-op was disbanded following the 2008 season and the Frederick Titans have been competing at the Class B level ever since.

HOME: Kickball and volleyball tourneys are new traditions

Some of the traditions might have been dropped because of lower student numbers. Homecoming in this school is still important, but fewer students means fewer activities.

This year during homecoming week, students participated in kickball and volleyball tournaments competing each class against one another, including a staff team. Members of the sophomore class said that some of the things they enjoy about this week include the volleyball tournaments, when destroying the younger grades, and preparing class floats.

FOOTBALL

North Border, three years in the making

By ISAAC MORLOCK
FASD Journalism

The football co-op between Eureka, Bowdle, Leola, and Frederick has drawn a lot of attention to our small schools recently.

The co-op is in its third year out of four in the contract. If you look back to 2016, the year before the co-op, the Leola-Frederick football team had just 21 athletes. This is just enough to scrimmage and practice your plays against someone. Football is a contact sport, so injuries happen, which takes away even more kids from practice.

The first year of the co-op, 2017, the newly formed North Border Titans team had 31 athletes. Of those 31, just 15 were from Leola or Frederick. In the second year of the co-op the team had 28 athletes; 18 of them came from Leola or Frederick. Currently the team has 26 out for the sport. Leola or Frederick contributes 15 players. In two more years, Eureka and Bowdle will co-op with Edmunds Central to form the co-op of North Central.

This leaves Leola and Frederick left to wonder what the future will bring for Titan football.
