Through the Years

Our class has often been misunderstood
Even though what we meant was for the good
Our motto was thought to be a childish phrase
When we tried to describe
our high-minded ways
We fought the system with our rebellious way
But we fought for what we stood for and we would never sway

We've come to the end of our time at FHS
Our daily stresses at last laid to rest
But no matter what future times might bring
We've left our voices echoing

Sincerely
the class of 1995
also known as "the Rebels"

Time Out For Appreciation

The class of 1995 would like to dedicate this yearbook to Mr. Blasdell!!

What other teacher would have a collection of strange hats, ties and other memorabilia in his room?? Mr Blasdell is a very special someone to all at Frederick High School.

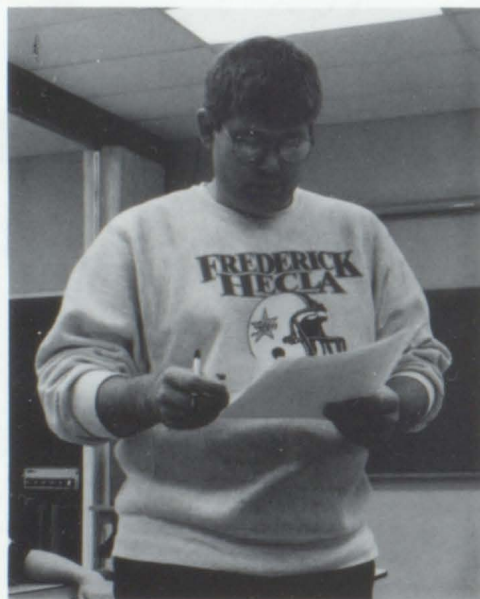

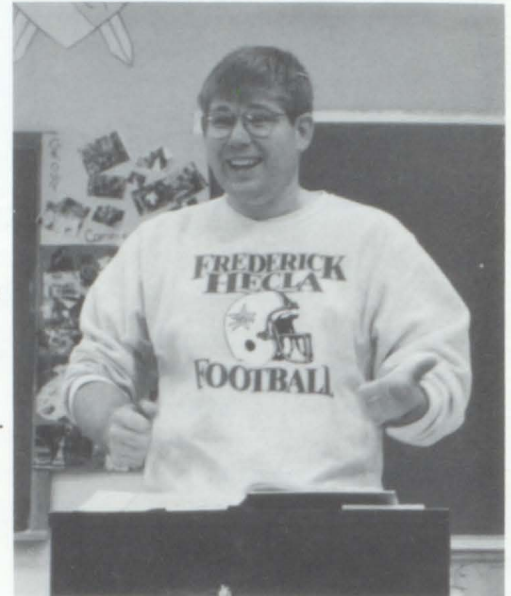

To this man of great generosity and creativity, the class of 1995 dedicates this yearbook.

Mr Blasdell, (otherwise known as Mr B., Grandmaster B or Charlie), has been counselor, english teacher, oral interpretation and drama coach to the seniors for the past three years. He is a teacher who has the ability to motivate students to learn while having fun.

Besides just teaching literature, Mr B. incorporates post high school information into his classes. He makes sure his students are thinking about their futures. Whenever anybody has questions about a college or career, the information is practically in their hands before the sentence is finished.

Mr Blasdell has a laugh that will make you smile and an unending ability to listen.

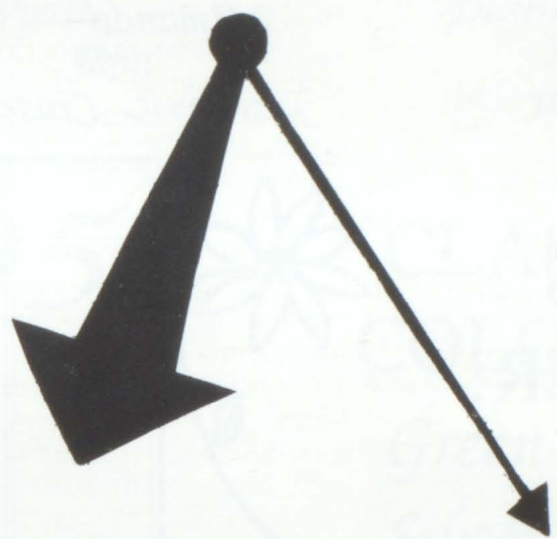

To a great friend and teacher, the seniors would like to show their gratitude and extend best wishes in the future.

Can you guess which

Try and guess what hour this picture was taken? Seems as if Paul Sumption does the same thing all day every day!

Well Jason Cox and Wyatt Scepaniak, that's what you get for letting the girls do your hair. (Jason does not look as if he likes his new look!)

Exactly how likely does this picture appear to be? Dustin Schmierer and school work?!

Excuse Me! But exactly what is it Dacey Cutler is up to this time? (Don't ever let her small size deceive you! Her spirit is as wild as a stallion!)

Big coincidence! Little Miss Organizer, Stacy Ness, is caught with her planner in front of her! (I wonder if she really even uses it?)

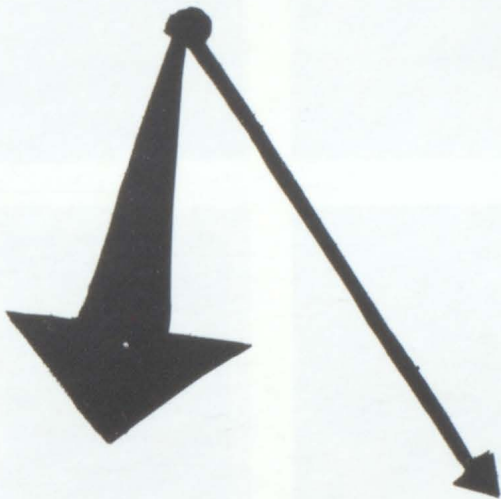

Jim Sheldon is definitely concentrating about something! (Whether it's about the game, his girl, or the party later that night, no one knows.) Right: Off on her own, yet still among us, Mandy Cruse is always doing her own thing.

Obviously this is a forced smile! Marianne Marttila can't actually enjoy doing her school work that much, can she?

Amanda Nixon and Sara Dieter were kind enough to stop talking for a quick snapshot. (Ever wonder what they whisper about with each other and their friends?)

Every Minute Counts

"Every minute counts" was a phrase often said and sometimes followed by the Junior class this year. Though they didn't always start things on time, they always pulled it off, sometimes with just seconds to spare. For the juniors, 94-95 was a time to remember.

Time Management

There's no holding back the freshmen of FHS. Whether its competing with their teachers or competing in sports, these first-year high schoolers show their spirit. Along with the challenge of the first year of high school, these students are in a variety of extra-curricular activities, ranging from football to oral interpretation. This fun-loving group of teens really know how to manage their time!

Time and Again...

Are the eighth graders the smartest students at FHS? Well, it can't be proven, but they did often have the most students on the honor roll.

GRADE SCHOOL

Time To Shine

Being the oldest at Barnard is pretty tough work. But all of the fifth and sixth graders have enjoyed it very much. "The little kindergartners look up to us." The sixth graders are pretty excited to attend FHS next year, but right now is their time to shine.

A Learning Time

As the clock ticked by, the second and first graders learned the value of time by completing lessons and projects assigned in math, spelling, reading, social studies, and writing. They used extra energy by participating in art class, music class, and physical education classes scheduled during periods on various days. Both classes participated in the Homecoming parade by dressing as cartoon characters. They also performed musical numbers at the Christmas concert.

WHAT I LIKE ABOUT SCHOOL

School is good because you get to do lots of fun stuff. We get to have playtime.

-Brittany Schlosser

We sang songs at the Christmas program. I like watching TV in school and my friends.

-Cody Gustafson

I like sliding down the big hill (snow-bank) while we wait for the bus. I like sliding down the tornado slide and other slides. I have a lot of friends at school.

-Shrylle Mikkonen

I like writing letters, coloring and playing with the farm set. I really like recess.

-Brandon Taylor

A Time For New Experiences

Fourteen anxious students, taught by Mrs. Colleen Wallien, began their school experiences with kindergarten. Throughout the year, they learned many new things. To help them work with the alphabet, they drew and displayed a symbol, item, or animal for each letter of the alphabet.

One science project included planting popcorn in baggies which actually grew in the bags but not outside!! The class completed several art projects, especially for the holidays. At Christmas time, the Kindergarteners made gifts for their parents.

As a special treat before Christmas, they joined the first graders in going to the movie "The Lion King" in Aberdeen.

To end the busy year, the group put on a program for their parents.

Barnard Student Life

Barnard students have been very active this year. They participated in the Homecoming parade, Christmas concert, and various other activities.

The Barnard Tag Team Members along with the upper classmen, sold T-shirts to raise money for guest speaker, Sally Roesh Wagner.

Also this year, the fifth graders graduated from the DARE program.

When asked what time of the day they liked best, most students responded, "Recess!!"

CHANGING WITH THE TIMES

This year Frederick High School has expanded its academic possibilities by setting up a telecommunication system. The system now makes it possible for the students to take classes that were not offered to them before. The courses being taken this year are Art Through the Eyes of the Lakota, Journalism, Spanish I, Agricultural management, Spanish II, and Physics.

The Telecommunication system is connected with five other neighboring high schools that are also hooked up to the system. Bristol High School teaches Spanish I and Spanish II. Groton teaches the Agricultural management class. Hecla High School teaches both the Journalism class and the Physics class. From our school, Mrs. Brokaw and Mrs. Schanzenbach are currently teaching the Art Through the eyes of the Lakota Class.

The Telecommunication system had many problems getting on line at first. There was a delay in getting the equipment shipped, and then there were various technical difficulties that slowed things down. The system wasn't completely set up and running properly until the end of the first semester.

A lot of work was put in to get the system ready to go. The ceiling was lowered, a new lighting system was installed and carpet was also installed. Four television sets, two video camera's and microphones were added to the room. Television sets were also placed in Mr. Barondeau's and Mr. Getty's offices to monitor any activity taking place in the telecommunication room.

TOP: This is a look at the telecommunication room from the student's point of view.

MODULES

Northern High Tech Modules once again visited the halls of FHS this year.

By using the modules, students were able to learn about robotics, lasers, computer mill programming, bio-technology and career guidance. With the Discovery computer program, they had information about various colleges and universities at their finger tips.

Throughout the year, various modules were used during class time to elaborate on "traditional" learning styles.

BELOW: Jessica Ibanez takes time to do a little bit of research.

Library Expansion

At the end of the 1993-94 school year, Mrs. Brokaw was busy packing up books in the library. Over the summer, the divider between the library and the assembly room was moved. The result of the remodeling was a more permanent division between the two "rooms".

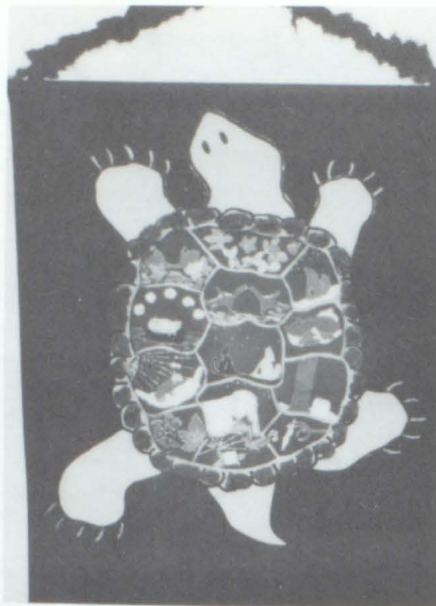

The library section was expanded, while in turn, the old assembly (now history room) was made smaller.

With extra room added to the library, teachers could bring entire classes in to do research and not have to worry about being cramped for space.

A benefit to the students was having the research equipment spread out, rather than having everything crowded into a corner.

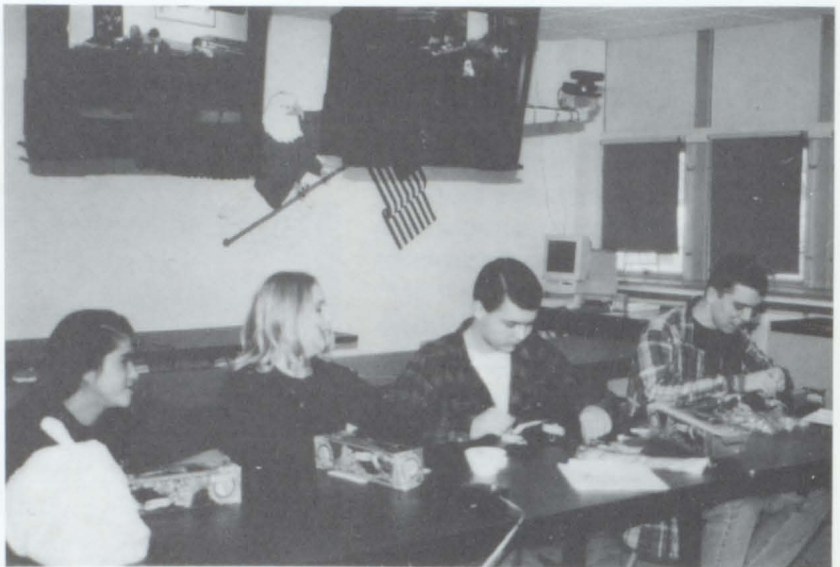

The library expansion is just another example of how Frederick High School is changing with the times.

Art Through the Eyes of the Lakota

The telecommunications system put in place at FHS allowed a new cultural class to be taught. Teresa Schanzenbach and Jackie Brokaw instructed students on the ways of the Lakota Indians. Together they worked on many projects throughout the year. They finished a turtle wallhanging, now displayed in the telecom room (pictured at top left). It represented the thirteen months of the Lakota calendar. On Native American Awareness Day, the students went down to the elementary school to give a program for the younger kids. Each high school student was responsible for one part of the presentation. From November 28 to December 1, Dallas Chief Eagle, an experienced and well-traveled hoop dancer, worked with the FHS students as part of the Artists-in-Schools program. On December 1, the Lakota class sponsored a program which included hoop dancing by Chief Eagle and junior high students, and the presentation of Peace Medals to supportive members of the community. The Lakota Art students had a good time this year learning about a different way of life.

TAG Team

For part of their program in the 94-95 school year, the TAG (Talented and Gifted) Team of FHS sponsored a guest speaker to visit with the students. Sally Roesch Wagner, a former professor of women's studies and author of numerous books, spoke at both the elementary and high school. She explained how different women's roles in society were in the 1800s, how far society has come since then, and also how far society has yet to go before putting the sexes on equal ground.

To raise some of the money needed for Wagner to speak at Elm Valley, the TAG team sold environmental T-shirts. The T-shirts were popular at FHS, and many students could be seen sporting the earth-friendly logos.

Student Council

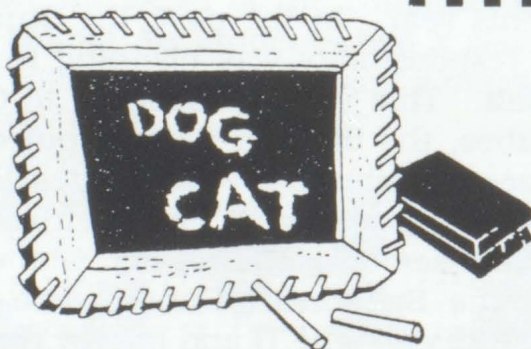

The 1994-95 Student Council decided to do something different this year. In the past, the Student Council's main responsibility was planning Homecoming in the fall. This year, in addition to their Homecoming duties, the Student Council put on a Sweetheart Dance in February. Candidates for a Sweetheart King and Queen were chosen from the Junior Class by the seniors. The royalty, who were crowned at the the Sweetheart Dance, were Jon Ellwein and Sandra Pehl. The TI and Improv groups also sponsored the festivities.

FACULTY

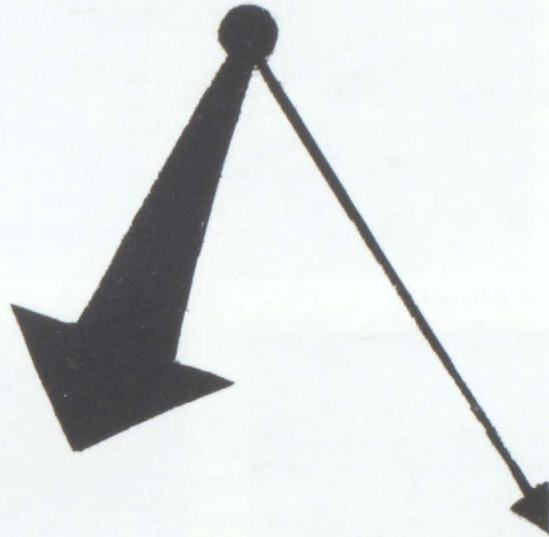

FHS saw a lot of changes in the '94-'95 school year. Several room changes were made, such as the English room moving to the junior high area, the history room moving to the old English room, and the old Government room becoming the Telecommunications room. Changes in faculty occurred as well. Cynthia Rall took charge of the science classes, and Janel Barondeau took over some of the computer and math classes. Jerome Lee took Mr. Shetler's position as head basketball coach and history teacher, while Bill Kurtz replaced Mr. McIntosh as football coach, P.E. teacher and government teacher. Liz Labesky is also back at FHS after a three-year absence. All in all, the teachers of FHS helped make '94-'95 a time to remember!

A Time for Memories

Homecoming week proved to be exciting yet disappointing. Although the girls basketball team and football team each suffered a loss, that didn't keep our spirits down. The coronation ceremony was celebrated on Thursday with skits being performed and royalty being crowned. This year's king and queen were Wyatt Scepaniak and Dacey Cutler. The Homecoming parade was another crowd attraction.

With all the screwed-up hair-dos and crazy clothing, Homecoming '94 was definitely a time to remember!

TEEN INSTITUTE

The group was taught peer helping skills last summer. Teen Institute members pose for the camera. Front: Suzanne Giovannettone, Twyla Sumption Middle: Dustin Schmierer, Advisor Charlie Blasdel, Alisha Groop Back: Sandra Pehl, Paul Sumption

In the summer of 1994, FHS sent six students to Northern State University's campus for the Teen Institute Program. This year, the TI students were involved with the Peer Education Tract. They were taught how to organize and prepare presentations for students as well as adults.

Their presentations dealt a lot with prevention of the use of drugs and alcohol, and peer pressure. The TI students had help from the Improv students on a presentation to the Barnard 5th and 6th grades on November 23. Programs were also presented at Hecla and Ipswich later in the school year.

Teen Institute, along with Improv, once again this year, sponsored "Reality 101", a multi-media production which was shown to the junior and senior high students.

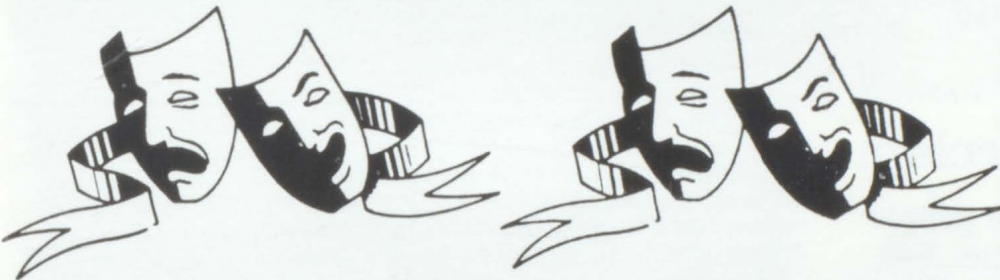

Improv '94

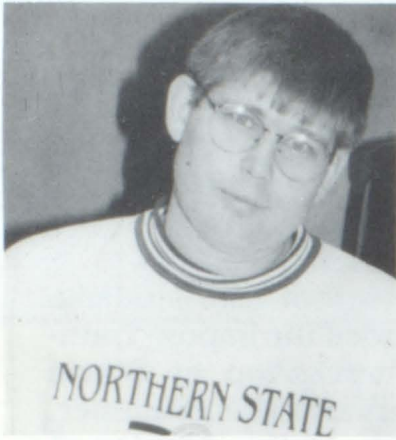

A total of nine students attended the Improv Training workshop at Storm Mountain this summer. Stacy Ness, Marianne Marttila, Dustin Schmierer, Joe Ness, Joely Larsen, Jeremy Jenson, Jessica Ibanez, and Christina Olson went as campers and Wyatt Scepaniak was a Peer Trainer.

This year, the Improv team, along with the Teen Institute members traveled to Barnard to talk to the 5th and 6th grades about decision making, self esteem and peer pressure. They also traveled to Ipswich and Hecla to perform for their grade school and junior high students.

Charlie Blasdell was the teams' advisor. He had this to say about the team, "In helping other students, Improv members often find answers to their own problems." Peer Trainer Wyatt Scepaniak said about his experience, "I've learned a lot the past two years and made a lot of new friends. I hope to return again next year."

Successful Year for Declam

Where could you find 21 people climbing on a bus at 5:00 in the morning, carrying pillows and sometimes wearing slippers?

When can you find a number of people talking to themselves, and to walls for hours at a time?

THE DAY OF AN ORAL INTERP MEET !

The oral interpretation team from FHS traveled to meets in Milbank, Clear Lake and at Northern State University. The group did very well this year, claiming the 2nd place sweepstakes trophy at Clear Lake & having six people advance to Regions. Jessica Ibanez was awarded with highest honors at the state level in the oratory category.

This year's One-Act play contest was a complete success. The play was entitled "Trifles" by Susan Glaspell. The play portrayed an old farm house and the investigation of a murder. The suspect is the wife of the dead victim who is being held. Now she is to be tried by her peers, two women whose husbands are investigating the murder. However, the two women analyze the condition of the house and what appears to be uncritical evidence to discover the real story.

The Frederick team did not advance from Regionals; but they did receive spectacular reviews from the judges. At the competition they competed against nine other schools and Stacy Ness received a "Superior Actress" Award.

BAND

Band members were happy to have Liz Labesky once again teaching in Frederick. The group accomplished many things this year. With her return, plans for a trip to Minneapolis, MN were begun for the spring of 1996. Members raised funds for this by selling pies and candy.

Like always, the band performed at not only the boys basketball games, but a few of the girls games as well. For this purpose they learned many new pep songs to add to their repertoire.

Miss Labesky's ideas and the students' enthusiasm combined for many new and interesting twists at several of their performances this school year.

Band members include: FRONT ROW: Sandy Pehl, Heidi Marttila, Alisha Groop, Anne Sheldon, Janel Walworth, Lynne Huettl, Lindsay Maunu, Jennifer Kopetsky, Bridget Torrence, Marianne Marttila, Jessica Ibanez, Gwen Schaunaman, Sara Dieter, and Elizabeth Fonder. BLAST FROM THE PAST

The FHS choir recieved a blast from the past this year with the return of Miss Labesky. Miss Labesky was a director at FHS for three years before leaving in 1991.

With Miss Labesky's return came the return of the "Pop, Popcorn, and Pop's" concert. The theme for the concert was appropriately titled "Blast from the Past."

A girl's ensemble traveled to music contest with the song "The Ashgrove." They received an excellent rating.

The Snow Queen Pageant in Frederick took a different form this year. Instead of being held in the gym, it was at the Frederick Legion. The girls themselves collected donations to send the winners to the South Dakota Snow Queen Pageant in Aberdeen. Co-chairs for the event were Stacy Bretsch and Jessica Ibanez.

Taking the place of the big program like in past years, the contestants had a quiet dinner with the judges. To end the evening, the girls were introduced and the queens were crowned in front of family and close friends.

CHEERLEADING

The 1994 football cheerleaders came together to form a team. Over the summer the ladies attended the SDSU Jacks Cheerleading Camp. At the camp they learned how to do lifts properly. They also learned a "hip hop" dance routine. The camp was an all day event. This is the first camp that Frederick and Hecla has attended together as a team. The three Hecla cheerleaders were Jodi Lloyd, Shirley Himanga and Toni Dinger. The two Frederick cheerleaders were Jessica Ibanez and Jennifer Paul.

BASKETBALL CHEERLEADING

THE TIME OF THEIR LIVES

This year there were five cheerleaders, three juniors and two freshmen. Even though there was a two year difference the ladies got along really well. They had a new advisor, Doreen Emery. They also held a pee-wee cheerleading clinic for the grade school. The kids performed at a girls basketball game. The clinic was put on by the cheerleaders and also by a few volunteers. The ladies continued their cake raffles so that they could order new tops. They learned two eight count routines to do during pep-band songs. "I had the time of my life," said Connie Goebel.

The 1994 Frederick-Hecla football season was some what of a disappointment to new Head Coach Bill Kurtz and his players. The Northstars finished the season with a 2-6 record. Coach Kurtz said, " It was a fun first year of coaching for me, but the seniors did not realize they were seniors until the last game."

The Northstars started off the year by defeating the Faulkton-Cresbard Raiders. After that game, everything went downhill, with a loss in a close game with Britton, playing a tough Ipswich team, and a disappointing defeat on Homecoming to Roslyn-Bristol. The other three losses came from Northwestern, Langford and Warner. The only other win was over Doland-Conde.

Wyatt Scepaniak and Jason Cox were selected for All-Conference and Jason was selected as part of the All-Area team.

Jon Ellwein led the team with 611 yards rushed and Jim Sumption threw for 692 yards. Justin Knecht was the leading receiver with 13 catches. Jason Cox ended the season with 101 tackles, followed closely by Wyatt Scepaniak with 97.

As the score books were completed and the the equipment was turned in, the seven seniors ended the season knowing they would miss playing football and wishing they could start the year over.

TIME OUT!!

The Lady Vikings pulled through another difficult season. Their only win came from the season opener against the Veblen Cardinals.

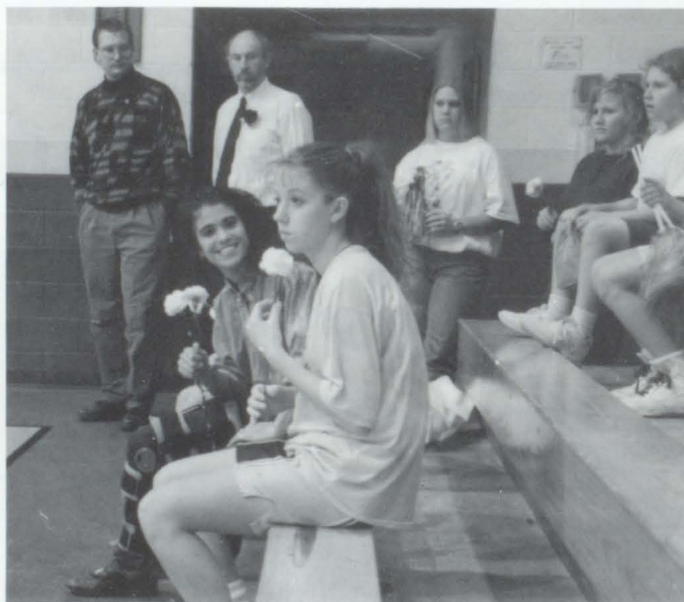

The Lady Vikings lost their only senior, Dacey Cutler to a knee injury early on and Lindsey Voeller to a broken wrist. This forced them to end the season with a total of only thirteen girls.

The lack of players wasn't the only challenge for the Lady Vikings. They also had to adjust to a new coach, Jerome Lee.

Despite the difficult season, Sandra Pehl was selected to be a part of the All-Conference team.

Coach Lee had this to say about the 1994 girls basketball season. "Despite a frustrating year in the win-loss column, the Lady Vikings showed much enthusiasm throughout the year. Graduating no seniors and with the experience they gained from this season's campaign, the girls have prepared themselves for a much better season next year."

BOYS BASKETBALL

The Vikings had a rebuilding year. Only one senior started, and the others fell to injury early in the season. This made the younger boys step up to the varsity level. The season did have some great moments. When Jim Sumption broke the all time leading score in a single season by averaging 32 points per game. He also averaged nine rebounds per game. Jon Ellwein averaged five assists for the Vikings.

Overall the Vikings ended the season with a 5-14 record. In the first round of the district tournaments they were defeated by the Warner Monarchs. We feel that in the season to come the players will have good experience, and should be fun to watch.

The Vikings received new shooting shirts and new basketball shorts this season. The student manager was Russell Inches and the statisticians were: Stacy Ness, Sandra Pehl, and Heidi Marttila.

Black Magic

A Time For Magic

Black Magic, that is. This year the nine members of Black Magic accomplished a lot. Beginning in November, the drill team began to make up and practice routines. All the routines that they performed were choreographed by students. Black Magic performed at five home basketball games, and they also performed at Districts and State B's. Along with their performances Black Magic held a raffle to raise money to add sequins to their uniforms and to attend the North Dakota Dance and Drill competition in Bismark on January 28. While there, the team members got an idea what a drill team competition is like, and gained new ideas for routines. Black Magic's year was filled with flair, funk, and most definitely fun!!!

Sports Year In Review

Jason Cox and Wyatt Scepaniak were chosen to take part in the Down Under Bowl because of their accomplishments in football. They had several fundraisers which included a stew supper and a cash raffle. During the summer, the two will travel to Australia where they will play football.

1994 Track

Two girls from FHS advanced to the state track meet in the spring of '94. Dacey Cutler advanced in the 100 m and 200 m races. She placed 9th in the 100 and took 6th place in the 200!! Sheila Napton advanced from regions to state in 300 m hurdles. GOOD JOB LADIES!!!!

Amazing Shots!!!

Jim Sumption led the state in overall number of points during the 94-95 boys basketball season. As a sophomore, he has already broke 1000 career points!!!

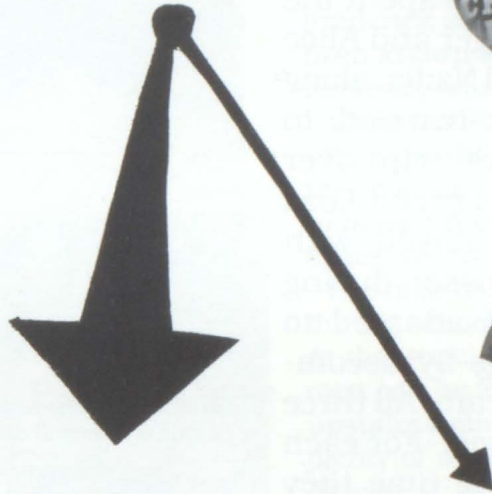

Handicapped Group

The Frederick High School mascot, for a time could have been mistaken for a student wearing a knee brace and carrying crutches. Injuries in basketball and football reduced numbers on all teams. Luckily a sports medicine expert visited the school every Monday.

There were even reports of a crutch-aided race that took place at a girls basketball game. Apparently the two students were in a hurry to get to the concessions stand.

Student Life

A Rewarding Experience

Three foreign exchange students made Frederick High School their home during the 94-95 school year. Elisabeth Scholz from Germany stayed with Steve and Judy Winther of Barnard from August until June. Nadia Carvalho of Brazil spent the first semester with Roger and Alice Napton. Elisabeth and Nadia, along with Sheila Napton, traveled to California on a bus trip over Christmas vacation. Lorena Loza from Ecuador, who stayed with Rich and Ellen Schlosser during the second semester, adapted to her new surroundings by becoming a part of the drill team. All three attended junior classes. For each of these students, the time they spent attending FHS was definitely a remarkable experience.

They Call Me the Wanderer....

It is true. Various Frederick students have been known for being caught aimlessly wandering the hallways of FHS.

Perhaps this comes from the "natural teenage insinct" to hang out (AKA taking up space, & having fun).

The time to hang out during school is lunch hour. At this time, the underclassmen can be found in the upstairs hallway (making plenty of noise). The upperclassmen spread themselves out a little more in various places: by the front doors, by their lockers, in the lunchroom, in the downstairs hallway, the benches outside, etc.

Of course, no one can forget the daily trip down to the store, where the students stock up on extra junk food to get them through the day.

No matter what, everyone does what they do best ..PASSING TIME AT FHS.

TOP: What are they up to now? Sheila Napton, Heidi Marttila, Stacy Ness and Heather Rystrom are hanging out in the lunchroom after drill team practice.

What's New at FHS???

1. Getting up with the Sun! School started fifteen minutes earlier this year than in the past.
2. Spirit shakers are sold by junior concessions at the home games.
3. Everyone is slowly getting used to the new telecommunications classes.
4. New Macintosh computers are used by the yearbook staff to help produce the annual.
5. Computers were donated to the FHS business dept. by the Aberdeen Finance Corp.
6. A newsletter produced by the Journalism class, the office staff and the PTA is sent to parents each month.
7. New teachers: Mrs. Barondeau, Mr. Kurtz and Mr. Lee joined the FHS staff.
8. Plans are underway for a volleyball program next year.
9. Many rooms gained new identities as their uses and names were changed.
10. A new design for Northstar jackets was sported by those who purchased them this school year.

ABOVE: Jason Cox's girlfriend says that he must really like his new STARS coat...he won't even let her borrow it.

SENIORS

In 20 years I can see myself...

- "living on the beach somewhere listening to old Jimmy Buffett tunes and drinking iced tea with an island girl," Wyatt
- "Early retirement would be nice." Dustin
- "with my own practice and raising a family," Sara
- "living in Utah working for an engineering company," Jim
- "farming and traveling," Paul
- "coaching in the NFL," Jason
- "head of a computer firm or counselor at a high school," Stacy
- "as a veterinarian," Dacey
- "hopefully with a good steady job," Mandy N.

My advice for the younger generation of FHS students is...

- "Be young and have fun. Don't study too much. Study hall is a good time to catch up on sleep." Wyatt
- "This is one of the greatest times of your life. Hang out with your friends. Have fun. Do what you want to do, whatever that might be." Justin
- "Take school seriously, but still have a little fun." Amanda C.
- "Don't be late!" Jason Cox
- "Enjoy your high school years. Take time to do something off the wall once in a while." Marianne
- "Have fun in school with your friends while you can because you may not see them very much after high school." Mandy N.

My best memory of FHS is...

- "hanging out with my friends and playing sports," Justin
- "Slave Day and Prom (decorating, mostly)," Dustin
- "the stupid things everybody did, and laughed at," Amanda C.
- "the people and my classmates and the fun times we had playing practical jokes on each other," Sara
- "seventh hour bell and winning LRC last season," Jim
- "beating Warner in 1993 and winning the Conference Football Championship," Paul
- "finally getting done with decorations for prom and being able to sit back and relax," Marianne
- "my junior year," Stacy
- "when Wyatt and I went to Wallace's to get chairs for prom...On the way back, they flew out of the pick-up and rolled down 281!!" Dacey
