DEDICATION

The senior class of 1990 dedicated their Viking yearbook to Mr. Doyne Jensen. He has been their principal, listened to their requests, and given them some special privileges.

TOP: Mr. Jensen speaks to the whole student body. He keeps students posted on any rule changes and upcoming events. MIDDLE: As Mr. Jensen leaves a message with Mr. Oster, Mr. Getty patiently waits for Mr. Jensen to join him at a meeting. ABOVE: Mr. Jensen is surprised to see the halls empty except for the photographer.

Make something of life

Graduation was held Sunday, May 20, 1990 at the Frederick gym at 2:00 p.m. The class motto was: "Don't let your dreams be clouded... Aim your sights high... Search your true feelings... and reach for the sky!" Their class colors were cerise and black with the white rose being their class flower.

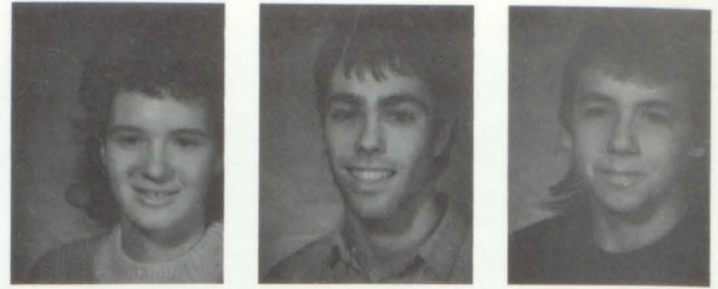

The band played the Processional and Recessional. Pastor Donna Stewart lead the Invocation.

Jamie Voeller's sister, Tammy Overstreet, sang the song "Greatest Love". The senior chorus members sang "The Wind Beneath My Wings".

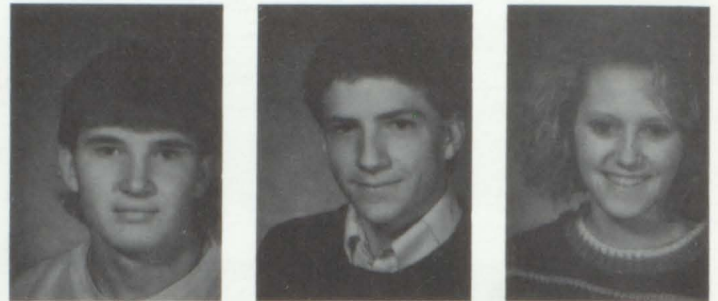

Dr. James Kretchman, from Northern State University in Aberdeen, gave the commencement address. The speech related to their motto and how to make something of life.

Senior honor students were GeorgieAnn Hoerner and Tricia Maunu. Junior honor guards were Amy Nixon and Deserae Smith.

Feel the relief wave

The junior class felt a 'wave' of relief as the year ended. With the help and appreciation of their parents, they overcame several difficulties. Parents were called upon to help work in concessions, more than once. The Prom proved to be another time parents came to the rescue and helped decorate, cook, chaperone, and even entertain. The combined efforts were rewarding for students and even parents.

Some juniors received special academic achievements with Ralph Wallace attending the State Citizen Bee, Paul Maunu attending Boy's State, Kirsten Barton attending Girl's State, Becky Sumption attending Youth Business Academy, and Darcy Maunu had poetry published in the High School Writer newspaper.

Several participated in band, chorus, football, basketball, drill-team, cheerleading, and track.

By the end of the year they started looking forward to their senior year.

The routine continues

The sophomores continued the grind of taking required classes. Several did encounter different or unusual experiences. For example, the first semester art class, under the direction of Mrs. Schanzenbach, painted the entire business room and designed and painted a mural on the south wall. The design painted contains six hot air balloons. The second semester art class painted a mural in the government room of an eagle and a flag. Both semester's classes did canvas oil paintings (instructions from artist Steve Ross).

Sophomores held a pancake supper on April 6th, before the high school play. They held the fund raiser to get started raising money for next year's projects.

The class visited the Hub Area Vocational School in Aberdeen. They were given a tour of each department. Several sophomores plan to attend vocational school as part of their curriculum next fall.

Some participated in band, chorus, football, basketball, and track. Mark Sumption qualified for the State Citizen Bee held in Pierre.

Activities increase

The ninth graders entered their first year of high school in a rush of activities. With homecoming, they built a float, second place, prepared a skit for coronation, and survived being slaves for a day.

The freshmen physical science class and their instructor, Mrs. Eisenbeisz, went to Pierre with the senior government class. They attended the science program at the New Cultural Arts Center.

Students had the opportunity to participate in both high school and junior high oral interpretation. They also joined in the festivities of the Renaissance Festival with Tom Rexinger being the Bishop of Canterbury and Reed Mahlke being the King. Tom Rexinger was the Valentines King.

Some were in extra curricular activities such as band, chorus, drillteam, cheerleading, football, basketball, and track. Tom Rexinger used his talents of piano playing to accompany some elementary classes during concerts.

Some of the freshmen girls stand to cheer on the boys basketball team at a home game.

Jason Strand and Lance Schmidt look on as Mrs. Davis shows some of the treasures from the Dacotah Prairie Museum.

New academic chances

Eighth graders were exposed to some extra academic opportunities this year. They had junior high oral interpretation offered to them. Six eighth, along with six seventh and three ninth graders attended competition in Milbank.

Both eighth and seventh grades had a "History in a Trunk" program presented from Dacotah Prairie Museum in Aberdeen. The students saw the items essential to the survival of the early settlers. Eighth grade studied the settling of and the history of South Dakota during the last nine weeks. The class prepared several posters for history and civics classes. In English class they wrote several stories, read books and stories, and completed projects.

Several students participated in band, chorus, football, basketball, track, and cheerleading for extra curricular activities. Sara Sheldon played piano to accompany some students during concerts.

Some eighth graders were on the Future Problem Solving Team and in the unique learners program. Both eighth and seventh grades sold candy for a fund raiser.

Seventh graders are: FRONT ROW: Tim Sheldon, Dustin Schmierer, Miah Jensen, Shari Maunu, Marianne Marttila, Dacey Cutler, and Amanda Nixon.

Beginning junior high

Fifteen seventh graders made the transition from the one classroom setting to the junior high hustle of six classes, and several extra-curricular activities. In science classes students studied the systems of living things, studied "family trees" and created health posters.

In English class they wrote many stories, read a great deal and completed several projects. Mandy Cruse even had a poetry selection printed in a writers magazine.

In social studies they studied several continents and created several posters. In Home Ec. they studied some cooking basics, beginning sewing, personal grooming, and personalities, and completed a special babysitting kit.

Students had the opportunity to participate in band, chorus, football, basketball, track, junior high oral interp. (first year in Frederick, and they attended the contest in Milbank). For their field trip they traveled to some of the historical sites in the area.

Seventh and eighth grade girls have a "spray down" following girl's physical education class, held every other day.

Art program continues New science project

The sixth grade, taught by Jan Ellefson, had a special art project of casting plaster on a clay form. The art program was kept going by raffling art posters, selling lunch, and a Stanley Party. Sixth graders had a typing class second semester. They joined the stamp club and entered the stamp design contest. A Drug and Alcohol logo contest was won by Gwen Schanaman. Spelling bee winner was Heidi Martilla. Sixth and fifth graders had a soccer game with proceeds given to the United Way.

The fifth grade, taught by Ann Hegge, had Growing Healthy unit on awareness of body systems, promotion of wellness, and structure of respiratory system. The major highlight was for students to dissect a pig's lung. Fifth graders, along with the fourth and sixth, attended the play Fairytale Theater. Several fifth graders wrote news articles which appeared in the Brown County News. They entered the stamp design contest. Spelling bee winner was Jesse Riggs.

Growing healthy units begin

The fourth grade, taught by Janel Bergan, studied Growing Healthy units about skin, bones, lungs, cells and teeth. They entered a poster contest on Poison Safety and a stamp design contest. Spelling bee winner was Anne Sheldon. A field trip was taken to NeSoDak Bible Camp with 3rd and 2nd.

The third grade, taught by Sandi Ulrich, studied parts of the body for Growing Healthy units. They earned Pizza Hut pizza's for reading books and completed projects about thier reading. Third grade had a student teacher, Cheryl Brown from NSU. The spelling bee winner was Dustin Jung.

UPPER: Fourth graders are; FRONT ROW: Janelle Walworth, Anne Sheldon, David Brummett, Honah McLaughlin, Daniel Possoll, and Travis Olson. BACK ROW: Joni Napton, Lynn Huettl, Connie Goebel, Christopher Maunu, Nathan Bakeberg, Warren Sumption, Janel Bergen--teacher, and Brain Jensen. LOWER: Third graders are; FRONT ROW: David Schlosser, Derek Sumption, Dustin Jung, Neil Karja-

Special activities

The second grade, taught by Denise Bradner, studied emotions, feelings, eyes and ears as Growing Healthy units. Students examined a sheep's eye, dissected by Norm Brooks, DVM. After a math unit on counting money, they had a bake sale and the profits were donated to United Way. Spelling bee winner was Kim Kinslow, and Big Tex Coloring Contest winners were Megan DesCamps, and Jennifer Kopetsky.

Writing to Read

The first grade, taught by Renee Brooks, worked to develop their "Write to Read" program. Students seem excited to read. During some of the Growing Healthy units the students studied about the five senses of the human body.

The first grade spelling bee winner was Jessica Winther. They went to Aberdeen for their field trip and toured the School for the Visually Handicapped.

Happiness and smiles

The kindergarten, taught by Shirley Heis, had Growing Healthy units about thoughts, feelings, happiness (which is smiling, trying, sharing and caring), and healthy smiles (where they learned to care for their teeth). Students started the "Write to Read" program. Each holiday created special activities. Halloween's project was to create the Witches Brew, where a new ingredient was added each day before Halloween. The kindergartners entertained the Senior Citizens in April and their parents in May. They took a field trip to Frederick.

Chapter programs help

Karla Balster led the chapter math program in Barnard. She worked with the students to develop math concepts that may be weak or to explain math procedures in a new way. Students were then ready to do the lessons in the regular classrooms. Programs such as the chapter math are used to try to build confidence in student abilities and to keep them striving to do the best they can. Mrs. Balster worked with Parents Advisory Council for all parents interested in chapter math and reading programs. She encouraged communication between parents, students, and teachers about grades and report cards.

Bridget Vavases led the chapter reading program in Barnard and the special education in Frederick. She worked with students to improve their reading and study skills. She encouraged parents to read to their children and thus improve vocabularies and reading comprehension. She reviewed lessons daily with the students in special education and helped set up tutoring for other students needing some extra support. Mrs. Rollo, very knowledgeable in all subjects, spent many hours with students reviewing for tests or reading tests to students. Mrs. Rollo also spent several hours each day working in the high school library, bringing and keeping records up to date.

ATHLETICS

Hard work pays off

Who knew, in the beginning of the 1989 football season, that the Frederick-Hecla Northstars would go to the first round of the playoffs? Who knew that Joel Campbell, Mark Scepaniak, Stephen Catlette, and Chris Sumption would get all-conference? Did you realize that Mark Scepaniak would also make both All-Dakota athlete of the week and all-state? Let's not forget that Stephen Catlette received academic all-state and made the all-area team. The Northstars ended their season with a 6-3 record and during that time they accomplished all those things.

The school spirit and pride grew with each win. The players worked hard on the field to 'rack up' their stats. Joel Campbell rushed for 1038 total yards. Mark Scepaniak had 60 total tackles. Eric Sumption attempted 72 passes and completed 31 for a total of 441 yards. Ralph Wallace caught 12 of those passes for 140 total yards.

Each individual player did his best to make this season a great one.

Northstars head to Burke

When the coach of the Frederick-Hecla Northstars, Tom Oster, told his team that they would be going to Burke for the first round of the State 9A football playoffs, they were astonished. The joy and pride that was felt by the players was indescribable.

At the end of the game, the Northstars were handed their third and last defeat of the season. Even though the players were all heartbroken, the coach and the fans were all proud of their accomplishment and it will be one memorable experience.

Vikings strive for success

"Are you ready for practice?" This was a question that was heard quite often in the halls. Even though the practices were sometimes hard it paid off in the end.

The girls took a hard defeat from the Hecla Rockets to place fourth in the District Tourney.

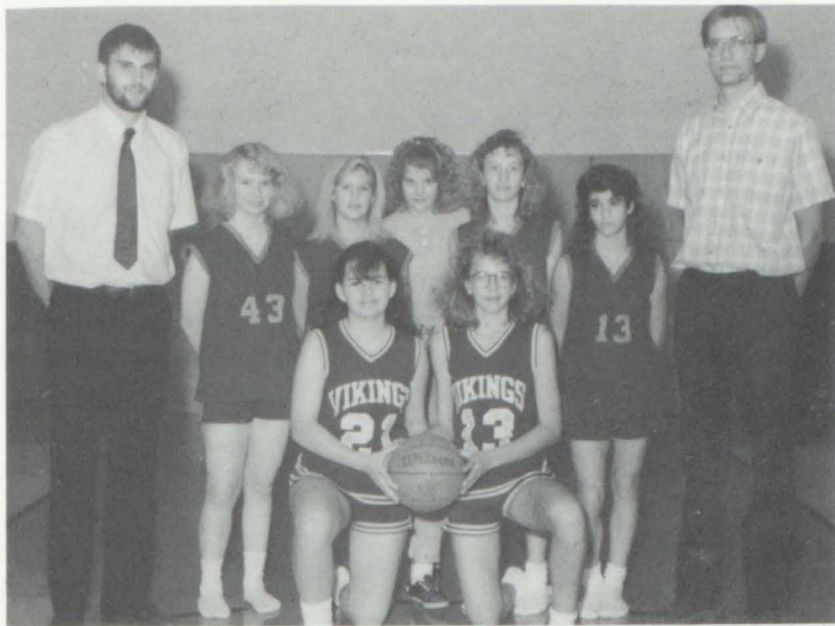

We asked the coach and the two seniors how they felt the season went. Coach Connelly only had two words to say, "Very well." He also mentioned that the attitudes along with the basketball skills had improved greatly.

GeorgieAnn Hoerner commented, "This season was one of many self achievements as well as team achievements. We stayed together through both the good and bad games. Making this season victorious if not in the record but in the memories." When Clarissa Napton was asked how she felt the season went she replied, "Everyone's part as a team was great at times. I would also like to wish the best of luck to next years team."

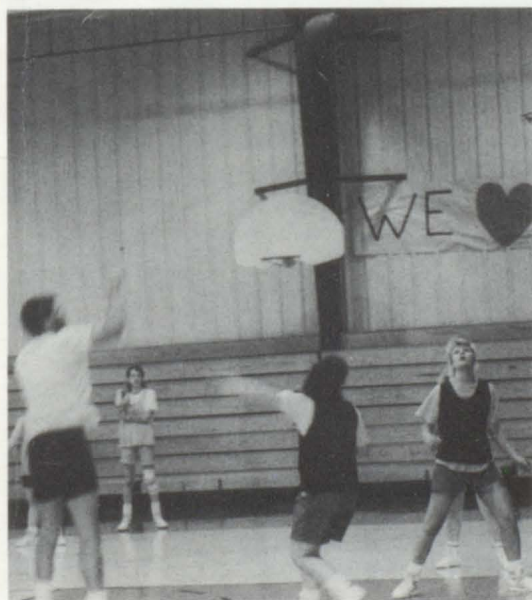

Just for the records we did a little research to show you some of our top players. GA had 107 points and 91 rebounds. Amy Nixon had 217 points and 69 rebounds. Michele Rydberg had 292 points and 213 rebounds. She also Recieved All Conference.

What do the words basketball, team spirit, and togetherness really mean? This years B-Team consists of many young players, who soon found out what the game basketball was really all about. They worked hard to conquer their basic fundamentals, which will help them in next years season. They ended up with a record of 6 wins and 12 losses, but they are still striving for improvement. Pictured to the LEFT: The Frederick Vikings B-Team members: FRONT ROW: Carla Sumption, and Stephanie Paul. Practice faithfully

The Frederick-Hecla Junior High Football team was large in number. They had their ups and downs but were faithful about practices and tried to learn as much as possible from their coach - Pat Mikkonen. Coach Mikkonen, a student at Northern State University, came to Frederick every day to practice with them.

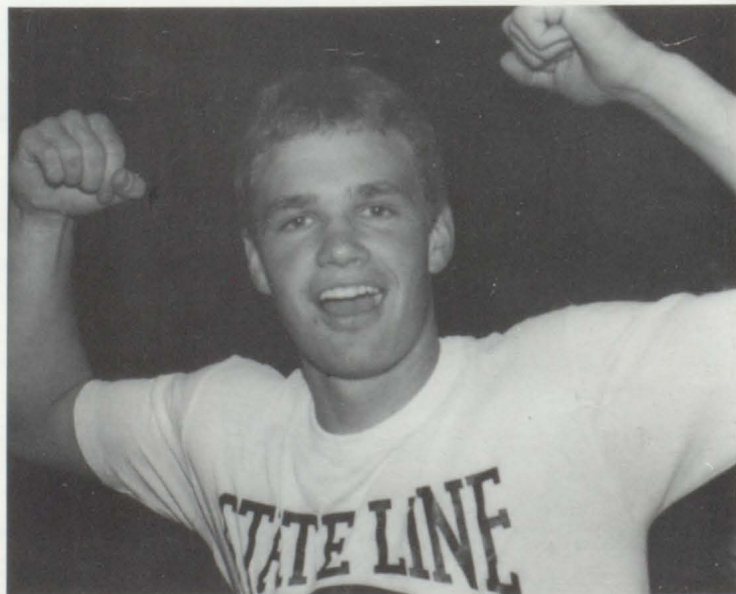

The weight room was used quite regularly during the year. During the winter months, the weight program was done before school and at the end of the day.

Jr. High shows their stuff

The Jr. High basketball program started out with thirteen eager players, that were coached by Mark Cutler. These young basketball players practiced with the High School boys, which helped them in develop skill needed to participate in the Y-Tournaments.

The 7th and 8th graders played individual games as well as participating in the Jr. Varsity games.

The high number of boys participating indicates an essential interest for our future High School basketball team.

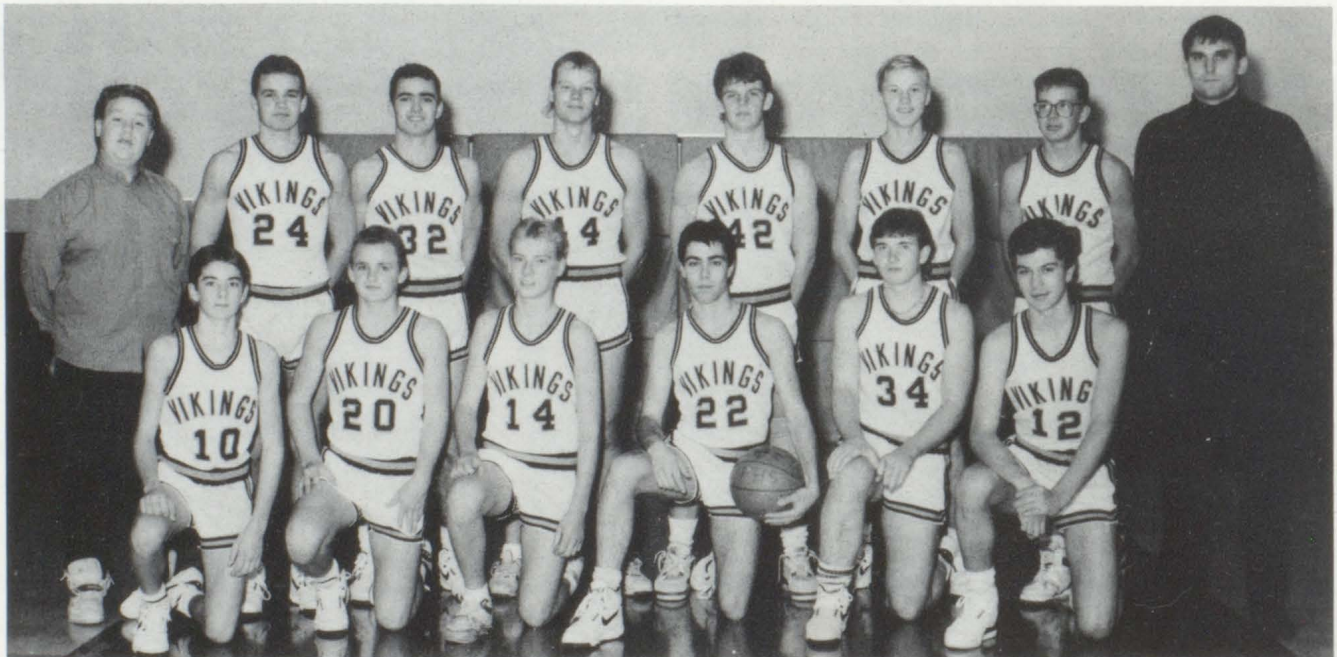

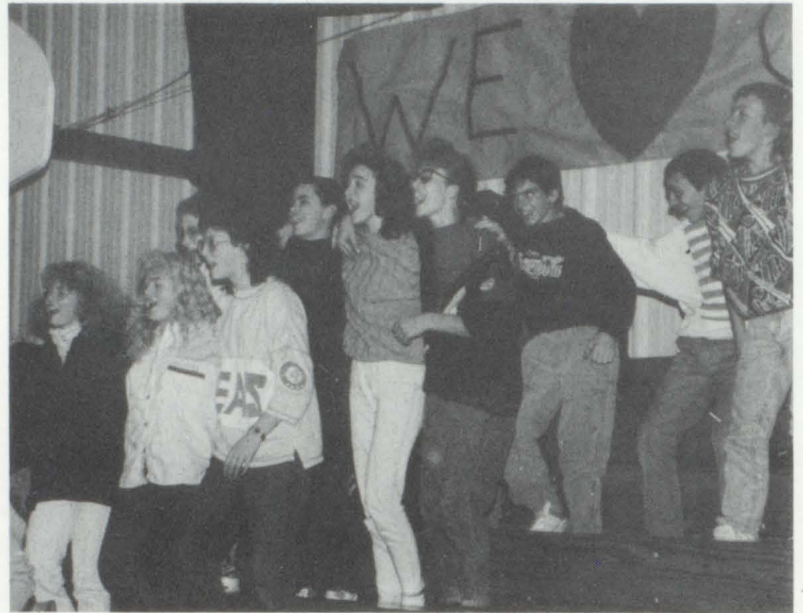

Four eager young and enthusiastic young ladies lead the crowd in chants that was sure to make the will power of the Frederick Jr. High Vikings, even more overpowering then their opponents. Boy's basketball

This year's boy's basketball season had many ups and downs, but it seemed no matter how hard the times were the guys would come out more determined than ever. The seniors, Stephen Catlette and Chris Sumption, showed everyone their ability to be team leaders, and their teammates were influenced by them.

New records set

With the snow melted and the sun out, the track students were ready to start getting in shape and participating in the meets. The first meet took place at the NSU Barnett Center.

The athlete's goals this year were to be prepared for the region meet and to qualify for state. Twelve athletes met these goals and left for Spearfish on May 24th. Individuals competing included: Ralph Wallace in the hurdles, Stephen Catlette in the shot put, Mark Scepaniak in the discuss, and Joel Campbell, Chris Sumption, Dillon Cutler, and Eric Sumption with three relays (placing 6th in the two mile relay). Michele Rydberg competed in the shot put, and Georgie Ann Hoerner, Deserae Smith, Cheryl Gage, and Dacey Cutler with four relays (only place 2nd in the medley relay).

Battle cry requested

"V-I-C-T-O-R-Y that's the Frederick Battle Cry." This was a common request by the younger fans. Their support through the year was greatly appreciated.

The football cheerleading squad consisted of four cheerleaders from Hecla and four from Frederick. Teresa Campbell and Mary Ewing advised the practices that were held in Hecla or Frederick.

The four football cheerleaders were the varsity boys basketball cheerleaders. The junior varsity cheerleaders consisted of one sophomore and three freshmen. They cheered separately for their own teams, but combined for a total Viking Spirit.

ACTIVITIES

Moments to remember

"I love and obey the mighty seniors"... "SLAVE!!"... "Yes, master?" These were just a few of the phrases heard throughout the 1989 Homecoming week.

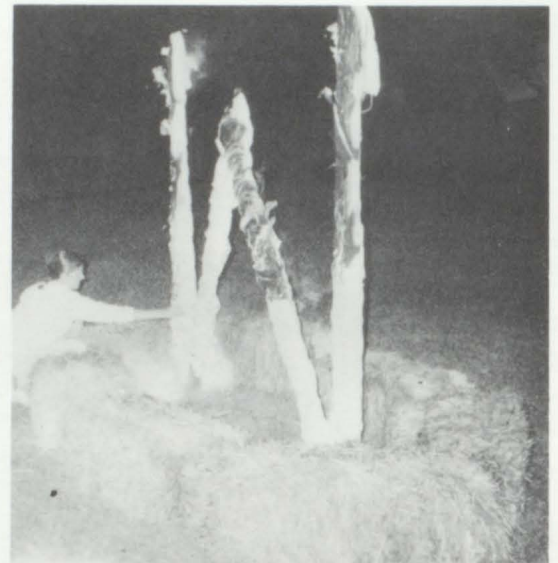

We began the week by recognizing Monday as dress down day. Tuesday the student body showed up in shades and hats. Wednesday, brought a few laughs when many students dressed as either the opposite sex or a mismatched person.

Wednesday evening people gathered for the Coronation ceremonies. Mark Scepaniak and Georgie Ann Hoerner were crowned the 1989 Homecoming King and Queen. Following Coronation, were a bonfire and a snake-dance.

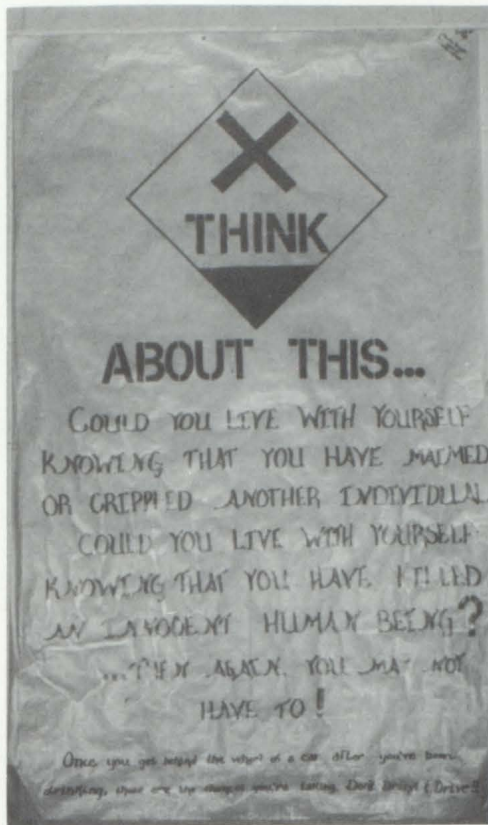

Thursday morning students arrived looking very professional, dressed for the careers they intend to pursue. Friday brought about school spirit at it's peak. The halls were brimming with maroon and gold, as the students showed their support for the GRAND FINALE of the week.....

Friday night our largest crowd of the season gathered to watch the Northstars defeat the Northwestern Wildcats, in what turned out to be one of the most exciting games of the season.

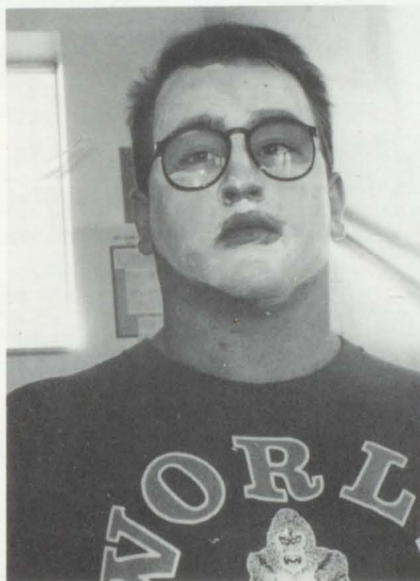

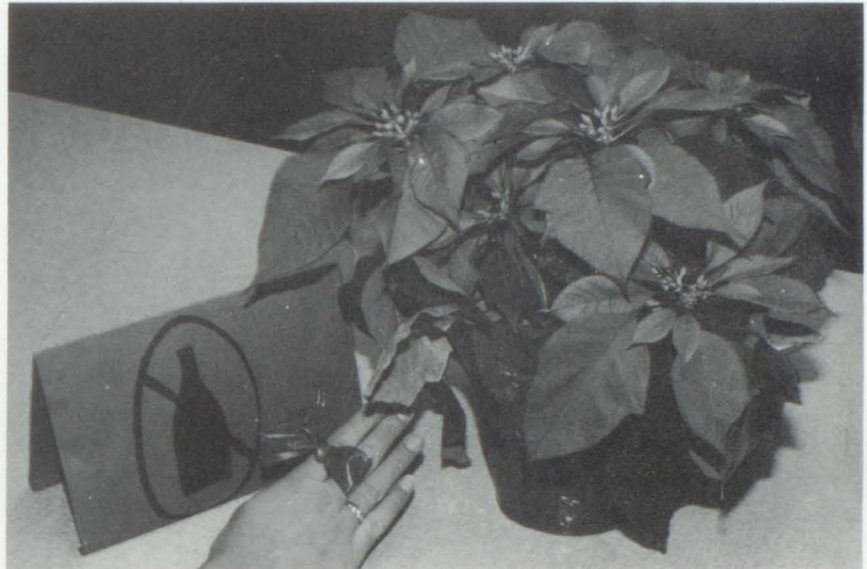

To top off all of the festivities, Cutlers hosted a non-alcoholic party at their ranch. Homecoming was fun-filled, activity-packed week that will not be soon forgotten.

Students against drunk driving held activities

The Frederick SADD Chapter under the supervision of Mrs. Cutler reached one of its many goals this year. Part of which was to participate in 3-D Week in December. Throughout the week red ribbons were handed out to many individuals and to the surrounding area. This brought across the point that many people have lost their lives due to the fact that alcohol was involved while driving. Another part of the goal was to devise a plan to raise money so the chapter would have financial support enabling them to participate in other activities. This was established by activating a bake sale and raising almost $60 for the SADD Chapter.

The SADD members reported that joining a group of such importance was both rewarding as well as educational. Rewarding because members got together as a group. It was educational because some members went down to Barnard to talk with the elementary. President, Mark Scepaniak commented, "Committing yourself to say "NO" to drinking and driving may be a life saving decision...it's not only your life you're playing with."

New heights reached

Aberdeen Invitational...Local contest...Districts..."REGIONS"!!!

This year's Oral Interp. team was one of the largest Frederick has ever had. Thirteen of sixteen members of our team participated in the Aberdeen invitational.

Our local contest produced the seven winners advancing to Districts. The judges for the local contest were Darlene Mikkonen, Bernice Rollo, Teresa Campbell, and Doreen Davis.

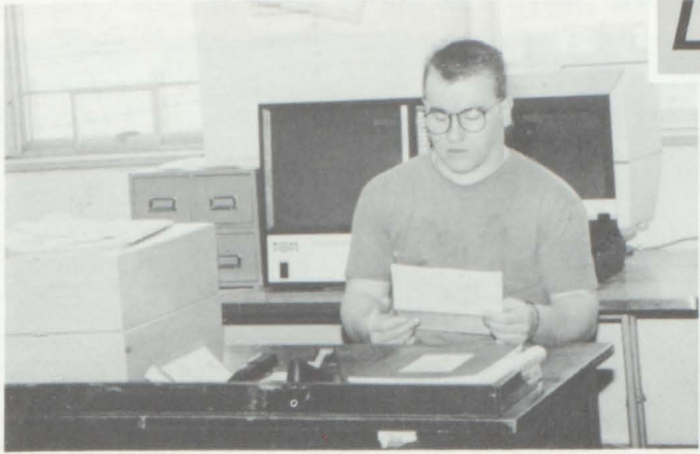

The BIG surprise came when four members of our team received superiors at Districts at Roslyn and advanced to Regionals at Miller. For the first time there was a three-way tie at Districts. The FHS team proudly accepted their trophy.

Oral Interp. may have been a lot of work for the team, but the extra effort paid off in the end.

Library Club came alive

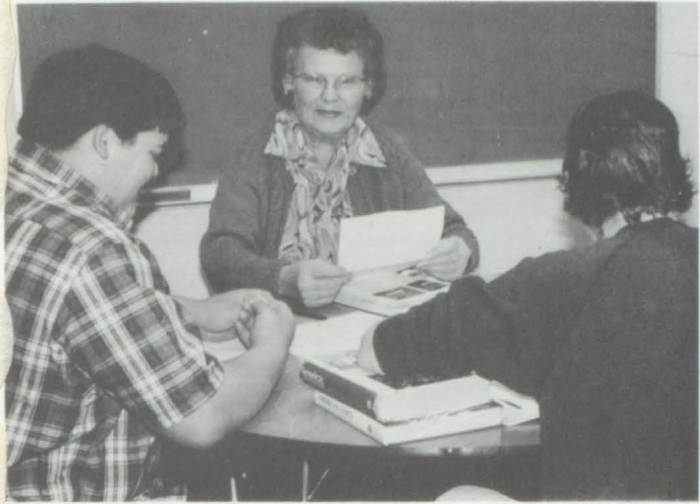

Improvements, changes, and the expectations of what is yet to come. Ask any student if the Library Club has made a difference in our school and you'll get an emphatic "YES!!!"

Less than four years ago, our library was just a wall lined with books, and couple of tables in our general assembly room. Today our library is neatly organized and smoothly run by Mrs. Bates, Mrs. Rollo, and Library Club members. Some of the library workers duties are: putting out the paper and magazines, checking books in and out, and helping to answer any questions raised about the TOM or SDLN. Mrs. Bates is in charge of the library and oversees all the workers. Mrs. Rollo puts in a lot of time typing cards, filing them, and generally just making sure everything is kept up to date, she also helps tutor any student that needs extra help.

The Library Club members are kept busy throughout the year with their work schedule, month to make a poster, and having story hour.

Being a member of the Library Club can be a positive experience, and this has contributed to the success of improving the FHS library.

Excellent job

If one word was used to describe exactly what the Frederick High School band did this year it would have to be 'prepare'. From the first day of school until the last, the band was preparing for performances for this year and next year's projects. One of these future projects is a trip to Minnesota.

The band started to raise money through various ways. The first fund-raiser was a candy sale. During the boy's basketball season, a cedar chest was raffled off. Towards the end of the year they put on their annual concert in the park and pop, popcorn, and pops concert. All this 'preparation' should result in a most memorable and exciting year.

Concerts for parents

Elementary Students sang songs for their parents at both the Christmas concert and the spring concert. The fifth and sixth graders had one more opportunity to sing at the pop, popcorn, and pops concert.

High school choir members practiced on Tuesdays and Thursdays to prepare several selections for both the Christmas concert and the pop, popcorn, and pops concert held in May.

Stephanie Paul, Brian Schlosser, Tara Bunke, Kristie Hart, LeAnne Maunu, Tammy Huettle, Mishel Burger, Robin Smith, and Tricia Maunu.

Candidates shine

The day of November 10th was not only filled with jitters, butterflies, and worries but also the smiles, tears, and congratulations that were exchanged after the crowning of the new 1989 Snow Queens.

The day began with a rehearsal followed by the unforgettable interviews. To many this was the most nerve-racking part of the day.

The candidates stood on the wings of the stage phrasing and rephrasing their speeches. They each introduced themselves and either their favorite hobby or their future plans. The candidates were dismissed and hurried to change into their formal wear. As each candidate was announced, they walked down the runway dazzling the crowd with sparkling eyes and beautiful smiles. Tammy Huettl gave her farewell speech and announced Carla Sumption as the first runner-up, followed by the crowning of Stephanie Paul. Robin Smith announced Tricia Maunu as this year's Miss Congeniality and Roc-

Kell Ham as first runner-up.

After all the rehearsals, entertainment, and preparations, the moment everyone was waiting for had arrived. As each candidate waited breathlessly, Robin placed the crown on our new 1989 Senior Snow Queen....GeorgieAnn Hoerner.

Mov'n to the beat

From 'Cold-Hearted Snake' to 'Batdance' the Frederick Vikettes were "shake, rattle, and roll'n" during the halftime of the boy's basketball games. During the season the girls put in strenuous hours for each routine.

Under the advisement of Mrs. Eisenbeisz, the girls had a great time doing their six performances. This year the drillteam didn't go to Districts or State B's.

The Vikettes will be losing one senior this year, GeorgieAnn Heorner. Her energy and commitment was appreciated this year and will follow next years drillteam.

New festival held

The Aberdeen American News!! Reporters, interviews, pictures being taken, crowds milling around, and "What's with the people in these crazy clothes? Just what is going on?"

These thoughts raced through the minds of the people who attended Fredericks' first annual Renaissance Day. Weeks of preparation went into this major event.

The freshmen and senior classes, under the direction of Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Bates, put many hours into their costumes, booths, games, and activities.

Each freshman was assigned a paper on a Renaissance topic. The seniors were each required to give a speech on their character and write a research paper on one of the topics chosen by Mrs. Bates.

The next step was for each of the students to come up with a costume. The characters ranged from royalty to villians and beggers.

The actual Renaissance Day drew a very nice crowd. People were greeted by beggars and hecklers. The people roamed around to the different booths such as: weaving, candle-stick making, quilting, and knitting. Some stopped to sample the meat and cheese pastries, wassail(fruit punch), and pickles.

Musical entertainment was provided by Janet Maunu playing her harp accompanied by Bridgett Vavases on her flute.

The proceeds from the event were sent to the Crippled Childrens Hospital and School in Sioux Falls.

All in all the Renaissance Day was an overwhelming success.

Jukebox Saturday night

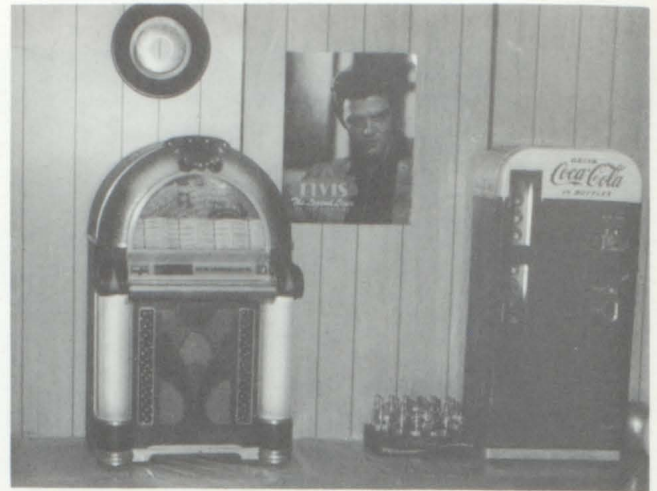

Jukebox Saturday Night was the theme for Prom 90 which took us back to the fifties. From the two-step to the jitterbug, prom was in full swing, however there was a lot of planning that went into the prom to make it a success. The Junior class worked very hard in cooperation with their parents and advisers to bring the prom to reality.

With the colors of silver, pink, and white the FHS gym was transformed into a dance floor complete with a soda shoppe, park, and murals to fill the walls. The ceiling was dropped in with clouds and streamers to add that extra touch.

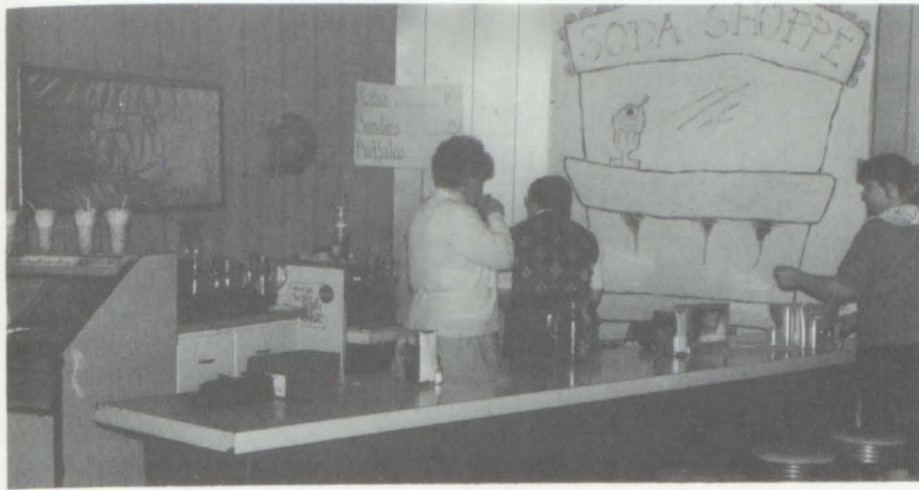

The night began with a social hour which gave everyone time to visit and take pictures. The banquet consisted of a traditional fifties meal: B-Boppin Burgers, shoestrings, onion rings, banana splits, and choice of Cherry Coke or Cherry 7-up. This meal was served and cooked by the Junior parents who kept with the tradition by wearing fifties outfits. Guest speaker was Roberta Eisenbeisz, who talked about the senior class and what they would be doing ten years into the future. There was also the reading of the "Senior Wills" and "Can You Remember" which were written by the Seniors. The juniors also gave out special awards to each Senior.

The entertainment was provided by the Junior Class parents. They performed three lip-sink songs which included: "Don't Be Cruel" with an appearance by Elvis, "Leader of the Pack", and "It's My Party".

The public was invited to the Grand March in which the students were dressed in formal attire. During that time the Soda Shoppe was open for the public to purchase sundaes, sodas, and buffalos. Dance music for the night was provided by Don Cassles which ranged from the fifties to the ninties. Following the prom a Post-Prom party and break fast was hosted by Dana and Cooty Maunu. There were prizes galore and everyone enjoyed the evening.

Awards program

A special awards presentation was held for students at the Frederick school on May 10th. Awards were presented for both academic and athletic achievements. Eleven students (an increase from last year) were eligible for perfect attendance awards. Boys Stater, Paul Maunu, and Girls Stater, Kirsten Barton, were recognized.

Presidential academic achievement awards went to Tricia Maunu and Stephen Catlette, while Athletic Director Awards went to Chris Sumption and Georgie Ann Hoerner. FHS Alumni Scholarships were awarded to Stephen Catlette, Georgie Ann Hoerner, and Ann Rohwedder. American Legion Awards went to Georgie Ann Hoerner and Chris Sumption. Other scholarship recipients were Mark Scepaniak-NSU football, Stephen Catlette-NSU Incentive Scholarship, and Ann Rohwedder-Nash Finch scholarship.

Awards were presented to math contest participants, music students, drill team members, cheerleaders, girls basketball players, boys basketball players, football players, Citizen Bee participants, Geography Bee winner, and the Future Problem Solving Team.

Cast presents thriller

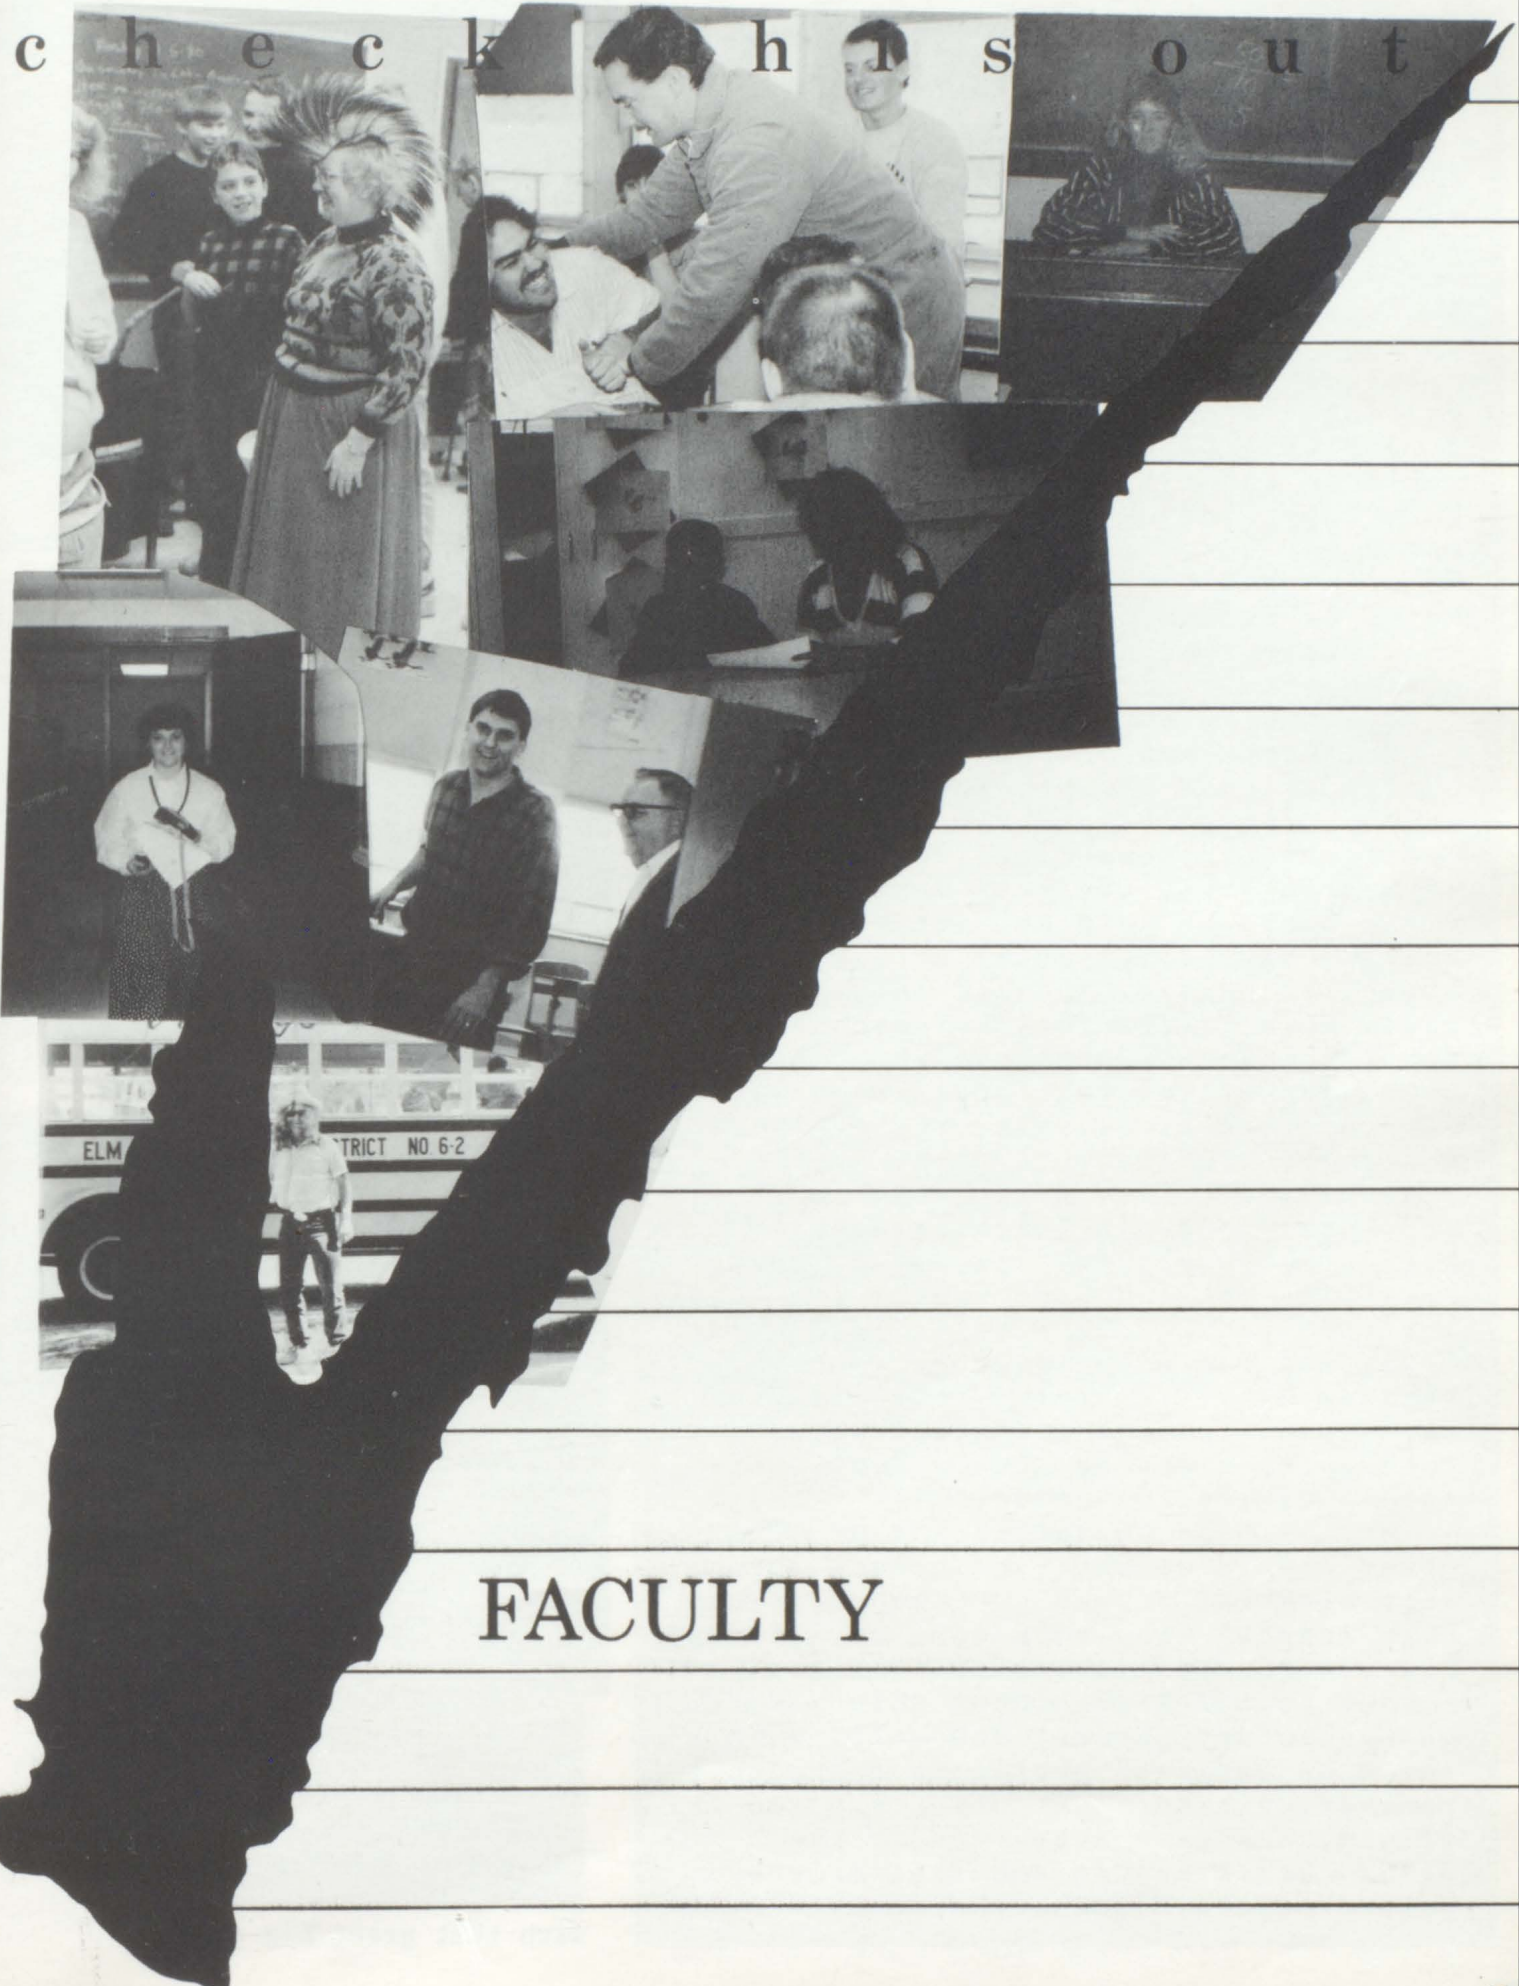

The three act play "And Then There Were None" by Agatha Christie was presented on April 6th. The murder mystery had a setting in Devon, England where ten unsuspecting guests were brought to Indian Island. The guests discover there is a murderer, but who?

Cast members included: Amy Nixon, Dan Nickelson, Georgie Ann Hoerner, Tricia Maunu, Michele Rydberg, Deserae Smith, Rockell Ham, Eric Sumption, Mark Scepaniak, Ann Rohwedder, and Reed Mahlke. Student directors were Sandy Huettl and Michele Rydberg. Merry Bates was the director. Taking care of set and make-up were--Darcy Maunu, Becky Sumption, Stephanie Myhra; Costumes--Carla Sumption and Stephanie Paul; Sound--Kirsten Barton; and Stage Crew and Lighting--Eric Kinslow, Mark Sumption, Shane Storm and Scott Franz.

FACULTY

Leaders keep us smiling

An easy way to get a smile on Leighton Getty's face or to get a conversation started this year, was just say or whisper "telecommunications". Mr. Getty, superintendent, spent hours and hours planning, telephoning, studying, persuading, and finalizing a grant proposal to help defray costs of implementing a telecommunications system in a coop of area schools. The system would be the first in this area. Even though Mr. Getty may have been extremely busy with this new project, he still had time for regular business. He never failed to "have time" for the little student who may stop by his office with a picture or just to talk (he seemed to put a smile on a child).

Mr. Getty implemented an all-staff breakfast once a month the second semester to unite the two centers and create better communications.

Sharon Bain, business manager, was right there to help Mr. Getty whenever he needed it. Being an extremely organized person, she had information ready when called for. For each breakfast, some newly designed invitation would appear for each staff member.

Just like clock work, the announcements for the day were given at the beginning of first period each morning. Mr. Doyne Jensen's voice relayed special messages for the day or week, orally recognized achievement for scholastic or athletic events (individual or team) and met with students whenever necessary. He reassured students that the administration and staff were there to help them and he gave attention to each individual's needs.

Mr. Richard Danielson and Mr. Tom Oster completed their principal internship with Mr. Jensen at the Frederick high school. They both were completing Masters degrees in administration.

New to the high school this year was secretary, Laurel McDowell. With a smile on her face everytime a student, teacher, visitor, or parent entered the office, she gave attention to their needs. Her kindness and friendliness helped maintain school harmony.

Backbone of our school

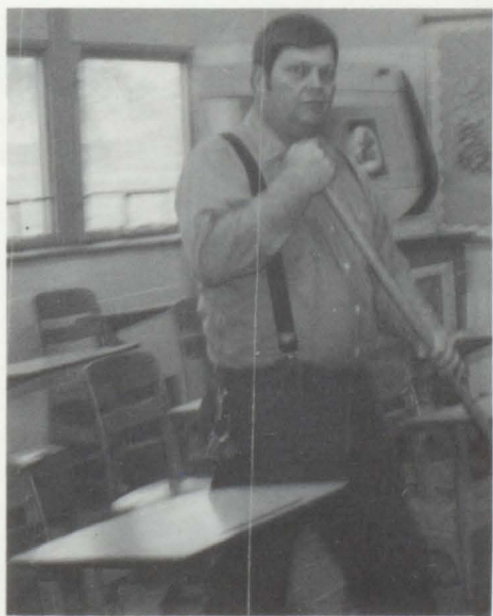

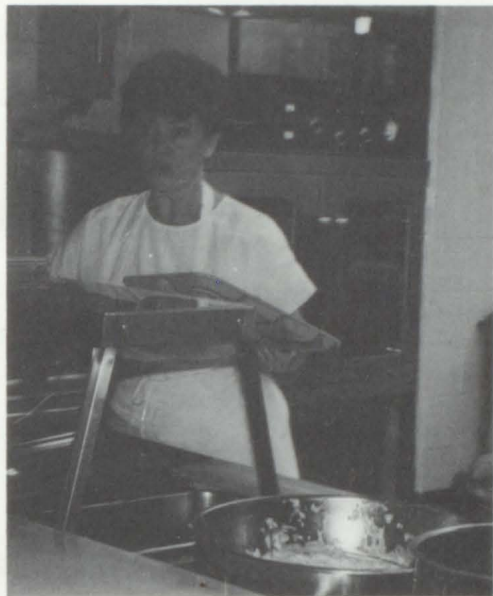

New to Elm Valley school board was Sally Larsen, elected to fill the position held by Martin Ronning, and Rayma Scepaniak, appointed to complete the term of Wayne Braa who moved to Minnesota. These new members with the current members: John Sumption, Kenneth Ham, and LeRoy Podoll, not only met the second Monday of each month, but had preparation and special meetings in order to keep up with all the decision making of today's school districts. New laws, government financial cuts, and economic change cause their job to be stressful at times. They worked closely with Mr. Getty and the developing telecommunications project.

Elm Valley bus drivers, responsible for bringing students to school and home again or to the many extra events taking place during the year, are depended upon and trusted. Those drivers were: Clem Braa, Edger Head, Carol McCulloch, and Mac McCulloch. Student cooperation of following bus rules made their job a bit easier.

Clean buildings, repairs made, heat working, gym floors clean, and only a call away are the janitors of our schools. Bob Smith, assisted by his wife Dorothy, kept the Frederick center in good shape. Todd Voeller kept the Barnard Center in fine form. Upkeep of school grounds was also a part of their job.

Last but not least, we recognize the school cooks. Sometimes the highlight of the day was waiting for noon lunch, just knowing those cooks had something delicious prepared. Marvelin Luoma was the head cook. Her assistant was Bev Wallace. The barnard cooks were Jan Bender and Lana Hansen.

Science and guidance

According to the senior science students a frequent response to their attempts of persuasion was "fat chance". Mrs. Roberta Eisenbeisz taught physiology to seniors, chemistry to juniors and some seniors, biology to sophomores, and physical science to freshmen. She took the physiology class to Aberdeen to Presentation College and St. Lukes hospital to study human anatomy. She took the freshmen to Pierre to visit the science program at the Cultural Arts Center.

Mrs. Eisenbeisz was the senior class adviser and the drill team adviser. She sold tickets at many of the basketball games and greeted fans with a smile. She shows a genuine interest in all students, staff, and parents.

The backbone of support maybe the way to describe June Cutler, counselor. Not only was she available to talk individually to students needing individual attention, she encouraged support groups to get started and keep going. She was the adviser for the S.A.D.D. (Students Against Drunk Drivers) group, which organized last year and had special activities this year. Mrs. Cutler attended the PEER Institute at NSU last summer with several high school students. She kept the group meeting regularly during the school year to support each other and to reach out to others who may need assistance. Mrs. Cutler organized the "Banana Splits" group for children, grades 4-6, of changed families. They met voluntarily at regular intervals to lend support to each other.

Mrs. Cutler was also the adviser for the TORCH (Teams on the Road to Chemical Health) group. She attended the workshop with Mr. Jensen and several students. They sponsored a pizza party and dance after the last basketball game.

Seniors received help from Mrs. Cutler to apply for colleges, scholarships, and financial aid. Her caring nature was extended to all students.

Environment improves

Given a new inspiration, some paint, and maybe some wallpaper one could find Mrs. Teresa Schanzenbach touching up or redecorating various spots in the school. She had her art classes design and paint murals in the business room and the government room. She and Mrs. McDowell, used paint and wallpaper to modernize Mr. Jensen's office one day while he was at a meeting. What a pleasant change. Several classrooms were painted and more are scheduled for paint this summer. A maroon and a gold stripe were painted about mid-way along all walls of the gym, the lunchroom, and the hall connecting the gym and main building. Mrs. Schanzenbach gave students the opportunity to complete a canvas oil painting, instructed by artist Steve Ross.

A guest Italian cook came to the high school to share samples of Italian food for Home Ec. I (7th and 10th grades). The students tasted three of the five courses that are traditionally served in the Italian home. Mrs. Schanzenbach taught Home Ec. I, art and economics.

Mrs. Schanzenbach was a junior class adviser and did much of the planning for the Prom which had a 50's theme. She worked with students and parents to complete a memorable prom.

Tom Whaley was the other junior class adviser. He was in charge of concession stands and helped set up for the prom.

Mr. Whaley taught 8th grade math, Algebra I, Geometry, Algebra II, Computer I and II. He took six students to the Lake Region Math Contest where Reed Mahlke placed third in Algebra I. Mr. Whaley took several students to the math contest at Northern State University in four divisions: Algebra I, Geometry, Algebra II, and Senior Math.

Being Assistant Girl's Basketball coach, filled in extra time from August until November. Mr. Whaley took time to coach the seventh grade boys for the Y tournament in Aberdeen in the spring.

New projects in motion

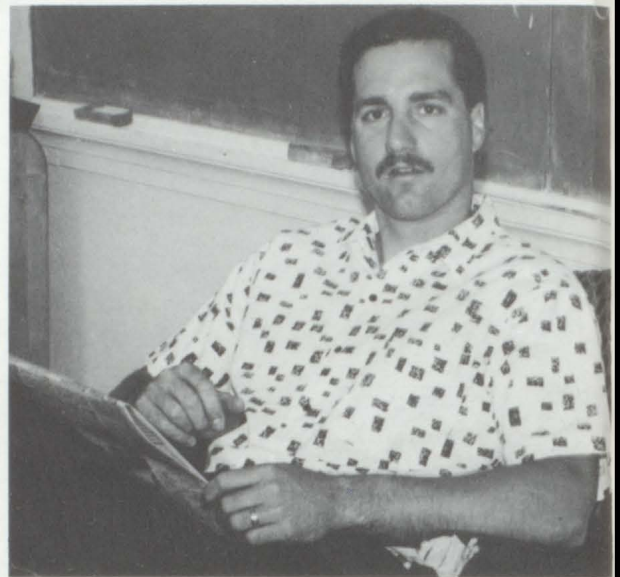

Being a coach occupies much of Mr. Oster's time. Early in July Mr. Oster heads a football camp for all players interested in the area. By mid-August football practice begins and Mr. Oster, as head coach, enjoys the whole season. During the basketball season he works closely with the athletic director to plan schedules and have referees lined up for all football and basketball games for the coming year. By the end of March track is in session and Mr. Oster is head coach helping students prepare for each track meet.

Mr. Oster developed and pushed for preparing an area east of the school to be a football practice field. He also got the ball rolling to raise money for new bleachers and lights at the football field. He hopes to have the bleachers in place for the 1990 season.

Classes taught by Mr. Oster include senior government and psychology, junior U.S. History, and freshmen geography. Students enjoy having coach Oster for a teacher because they get a variety of discussions during classes (this indicated by some seniors.)

Mr. Oster took the government class to Pierre to see the legislature in session in January. He can help explain politics to students as he is chairman of the Brown County Commissioners. He interned with Mr. Jensen this school year as he is working on his Masters degree in administration.

Since Mr. Kendall is only a part-time teacher, many students see very little of him. He has the junior-senior study hall first hour each morning and teaches a seventh and an eighth grade science class. Mr. Kendall shares with students many aspects of science they can use in their futures, whatever that career might be.

New incentive programs

As a coach in three sports, Mark Connelly's time is well planned for him. He was head girl's basketball coach, head boy's basketball coach, and a track coach.

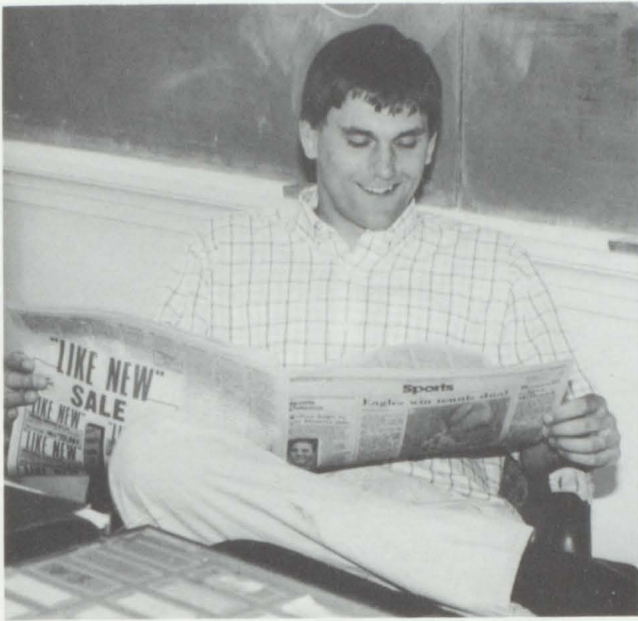

Mr. Connelly wanted students to improve basic skills and work for personal improvement as well as working as teams. He started some incentive programs to keep them striving to do better.

This was the second year Mr. Connelly offered the Citizen Bee test to Frederick high school students. Two students, Ralph Wallace and Mark Sumption, qualified for the regional bee. These two boys placed in the top seven in the regional competition held in Clark so were among twenty-one others to compete at the state level held in Huron. They did not place.

A local geography bee was held by Mr. Connelly, for seventh and eighth graders. Wyatt Scepaniak, a seventh grader, won the local and submitted a qualifying test to go to the state geography bee in Huron.

Mr. Connelly taught seventh grade geography, eighth grade health/civics, U.S. History (8th), and sophomore World history. Students completed several projects to help them remember their classes.

BELOW: Mr. Connelly finds some good news in the sports pages of the newspaper. He faithfully kept up with all schools and basketball records. BOTTOM: Mrs. Davis models a headdress from the Dakota Prairie Museum when they brought their trunk of history to our school.

Creativity encouraged

Creative structured classrooms was the method used by Mrs. Doreen Davis for junior high English classes. She had students writing, reading, doing projects, and developing thinking skills. Her methods helped students get inner thoughts and expressions either out orally or written down. With Mrs. Davis's husband having served in the Army, her family had traveled extensively. Mrs. Davis could share experiences with students.

Mrs. Davis was the adviser for the junior high Future Problem Solving Team. The student's last problem solved, earned them the chance to attend the rookie spot at the Problem Solving Bowl in Sioux Falls. Those attending were: Sara Sheldon, Beth Torrence, Marianne Marttila, Corey Maunu, and Wyatt Scepaniak.

Mrs. Davis had some students taking part in Unique Learners Experiences.

Extra activity results

Mrs. Merry Bates saw results on her efforts working with students in oral interpretation. Many students participated and some advanced to regions where they performed very well. She also started a junior high oral interpretation program this year. They went to a competition in Milbank and many of them had high ratings.

An English III student, Darcy Maunu, had a poem published in the High School Writer this year. Several poems were printed in our local newspaper to give the students recognition.

Mrs. Bates teaches a Spanish class as well as English II, III, and IV. Vanessa Barboza, a foreign exchange student from Costa Rica, visited the Spanish I class and conversed with them in Spanish. She had only been in the United States a short time and did not speak English before.

The library is kept operating by Mrs. Bates. She oversees student librarians and library club members continue to do "story hour" in Barnard. A new magazine, a gift subscription from Doreen Davis, the Victoria was given to the library.

Mrs. Bates was the play director. The play presented was "An Then There Were None." She works with the students about four weeks before presenting the play. The cast and stage crew accomplish a great deal in a short time.

The business room had two new faces at different times this year. In late October, Ann Miller from Northern State University completed her junior field experience. Margo Price did her student teaching with Mrs. Maunu. She taught typewriting, Accounting I and II, and Psychology (with Mr. Oster). Mrs. Price was a NSU student.

Mrs. Maunu taught 7th math, elementary algebra (previously general math), elementary geometry (previously consumer math), typewriting, Accounting I and II. She is the year book adviser. The yearbook staff sponsored the annual Fun Fest as a main fund raiser. Yearbook pages are often not finalized until early June.
