Academics

First Hour Classes

Seniors Chelsey Zinter, Caylee Hertel, and Krista Stoddard work on yearbook pages to finish this year's 2011 yearbook. They have dedicated themselves by taking snapshots at Titan activities and making this yearbook come together and look fantastic.

Juniors: Aly Perry, Tyneill Emery and Kayla Haas work to get their daily Algebra II assignment done.

Field Trip! Students of Biology II went to Presentation College for career fair day. Erin Walter, Courtney Schlosser, and Anthony Reimer fill out the survey in the morning to find out what they are most interested in.

Second Hour Classes

Freshman: Carston Hertel, Cole Hinz, and Dustin Bergan work hard to complete their assignments.

The 7th grade girls work on their math assignment.

What are the students up to?

Dustin Johnson

Dusty, a senior, works hard in finishing his last Algebra class of the year, with Mrs. Barondeau.

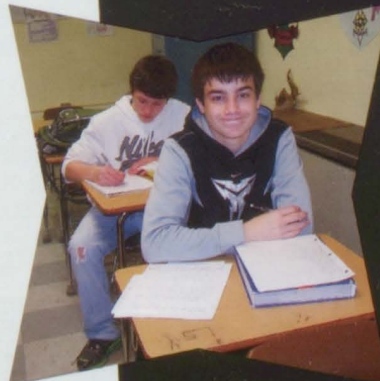

Wyatt Wolter

Wyatt researches information for science fair.

Lela Merabishvili

Lela works to complete her Algebra II homework.

Jayden Mikkonen

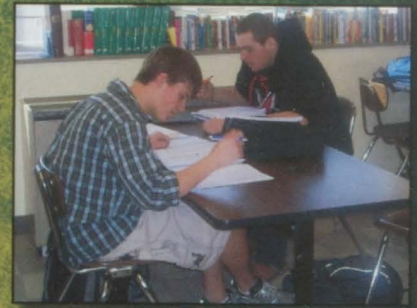

Jayden finishes up his assignments in study hall.

Third Hour classes

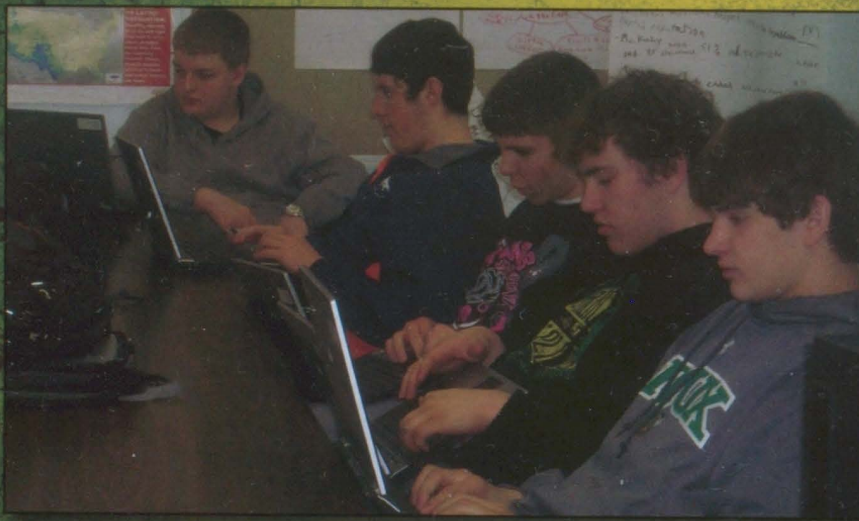

From literature to geography, a multitude of classes filled students' schedules third hour. Seniors created memory books, read novels, and worked on projects in English while juniors studied different behaviors in sociology. Senior Stefani Sumption explained, "Doing the memory books was time-consuming, but it was fun to relive all the memories with my class." Sophomores immersed themselves in the joys, or horrors, of Spanish, and freshmen learned about the world in geography. Eighth-graders took a simple math class while seventh-graders made science fair projects, did labs, and investigated the earth and weather in physical science.

Fun with Math: Aly Perry acts out a story in math while her classmates look on in humor.

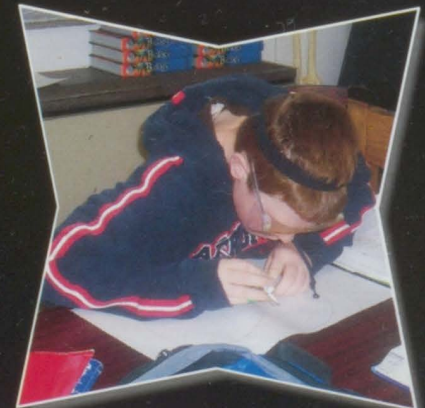

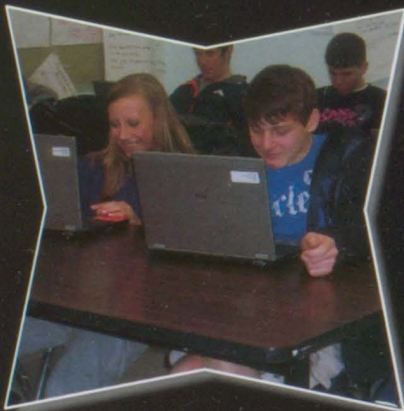

We Think We Can: Trevor Podoll and Ty Hoffman work hard to finish their sociology in class.

Working Hard or Hardly Working?: The freshmen boys look like perfect students while completing their geography presentations.

Fourth Hour classes

Band, chorus, art II, general math and study halls consumed most of the students' time in fourth hour. The majority of the student body decided to take at least one fine arts class. In band, students practiced pep band tunes, concert arrangements, and long-time favorites, while in chorus, they rehearsed songs for concerts and music contest. "I'm glad I stuck with band; it's been fun!" exclaimed senior Breanna Helland. On Tuesday's and Thursday's, art II was offered to juniors and seniors, and they were able to choose which projects they worked on. A math-help class was also offered to those students who wanted a little extra help with math.

Crazy for Art: Stefani Sumption shows off her crazy side in Art II class.

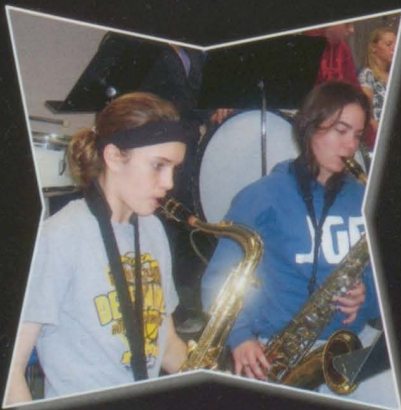

Dance, Dance Revolution: Cole Hinz, Hattie Zinter and Peyton Podoll add dance moves to a song.

Concentration: Lela Merabishvili works hard on her one-of-a-kind project for Art II, a painting about the greatness of art.

Fifth Hour classes

As soon as the bell rings after lunch, students quickly cram back into each class and await the end of the day.

Senior Caylee Hertel commented, "Lunch seems to never last long enough but then I know I only have two more hours of class left!" Seniors are able to leave last hour if their hour is open with a study hall.

Certain requirements came into effect this year as seniors must have achieved either a proficient or advanced on their Dakota Step Test taken the previous year. If students did not meet the requirements they were given a second chance as they had to keep their grades above a 3.0 during the first semester.

5th hour seniors took on personal finance during first semester and then moved either to study hall or college algebra. Students who are enrolled in college classes had to complete a series of tests through Presentation College in Aberdeen, South Dakota.

Juniors take on physical education first semester and then end the year with U.S. government.

Sophomores give speeches and learn about English and composition during fifth hour with Mrs. Brokaw.

Mrs. Sumption teaches the freshmen physical science during this time.

Finally, junior high students take either social studies or English after they finish eating.

Many people may either dread or look forward to gym class. As for the juniors, they all thought gym was exciting during their first semester. Mr. Morlock taught students new things every day as they learned aerobics, self-defense, relaxation, yoga and other activities. Endurance days were also part of junior gym as the students would either run, lift weights in the weight room, or follow along with P90X videos. In the picture above, some juniors are posing for the camera as they are supposed to be practicing their self-defense on each other. "My favorite times in gym were when I got to flip Kayla for self-defense and when we got to sleep on relaxation days," quoted Heather Underberg.

The photo above includes Jacob Ham and Katie Rystrom as they read the book "Hoot" by Carl Hiaasen during English class fifth hour with Mrs. Lehman. Students really enjoy reading in this class.

Codi Roebuck, Mikayla Forsting and Savana Hinz all work together as they prepare answers to be shouted out during 7th grade social studies; geography, civics, and economics are also learned in this class.

In the Classroom

Students were randomly photographed down below. Some had comments about their classes, but some kept working hard to finish their assignments on time.

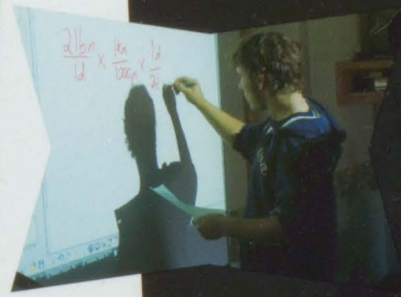

Angela Goodall

Angela is diligently working on senior math during this class. She is a busy student as she takes six high school classes, one vo-tech class and one college class.

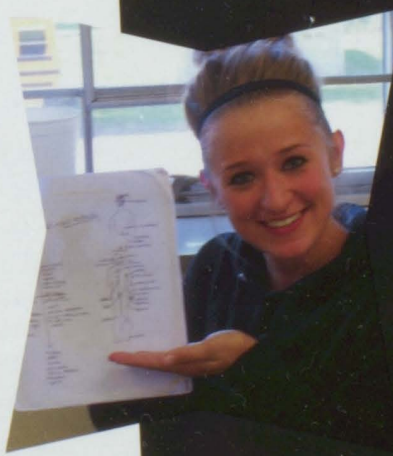

Devon Linthorne

Mrs. Brokaw's classes are always full of reading and writing, but during sophomore year, it is full of speeches. Devon Linthorne is showing off his stuffed animal that he brought for his speech.

Nathan Sumption

When asked "What do you think about physical science?" Nathan replied, "Say whatever you want, just make me look smart." Sumption expressed his scientific equation on the Smart board during class.

Calli Crawford

Calli has her Biology II diagram on display after finishing her assignment in personal finance. Crawford commented, "Biology II is a fairly easy class for me because I took health occupations my junior year at vo-tech."

Sixth Hour classes

Near the end of the day sixth hour classes are in session, and many different things are taking place, from making paper mache` brains to sleeping during class, to picking out new shoes to wear. This hour is packed with excitement. There are seniors, juniors and some sophomores in classes together, which are biology II, study hall, and accounting. Freshman are in English, eighth graders in math, and seventh graders in P.E.

During accounting Wyatt Wolter is trying to get his assignment done.

Seventh Hour classes

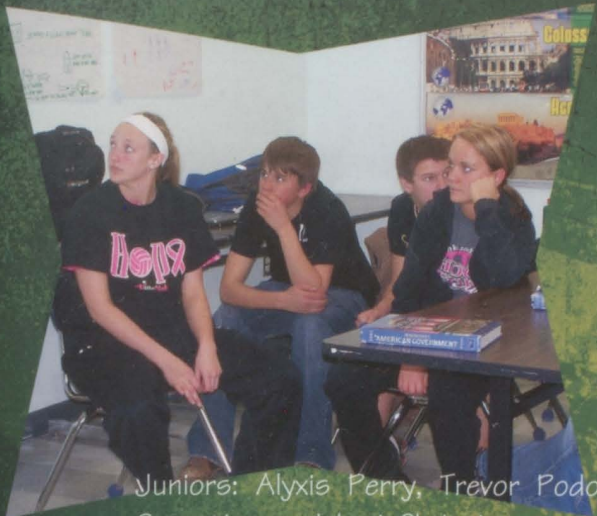

Finally, it's seventh hour, the last hour of the day. The students are anxious to walk out the door and get onto their busses or into their own vehicles because they know they have accomplished a learning-filled day!

Above eighth graders: Tanner Shultis, Paige Podoll, Nathan Block, Katie Rystrom and Jimmy King learn the dimensions of the ocean.

Seniors Brandon Haas, Krista Stoddard, and Austin Minard wait in line before leaving early.

Cody Mehlhaff signs out for the day.

Music Activities

Despite lower numbers this year in both the band and chorus, music instructor Liz Labesky managed to direct the students and let them have fun at the same time. The band's persistence paid off as it earned them a gold plaque in the Gypsy Day parade. Their persistence paid off in a different way, too--those who decided to stay in band this year got to go on a band trip to Minneapolis, which they earned from holding various fundraisers. One of the fundraisers held was Cotton Candy Day, reintroduced with the return of Ms. Labesky. Music students--specifically, those who participated in both band and chorus--with at least a C in every class got to be on the Cotton Candy team.

Cotton Candy Team: The Cotton Candy Team was reintroduced this year and had a great turnout, involving students from band and chorus who perform well academically. They got together to celebrate Cotton Candy Day and, of course, make and sell delicious cotton candy for the school to enjoy.

Putting on a show: Above, the band stands up to receive applause from the audience after a fine performance after playing at the Christmas concert. Right, the chorus sings their songs "What Child Is This?" and "Sing Alleluia!" The students put effort into their music and their performances were well-received by the audience.

Cotton Candy Day!

Hailey Sumption, Mariah Mikkonen, and Cole Hinz take turns manning the cotton candy machine on Cotton Candy Day. The day was observed so that the members of the Cotton Candy Team could help raise money for the music department.

Crunch Time!

The woodwinds in the pep band provide the melody during a basketball game. The pep band played before and during halftime at varsity basketball games, as well as football and volleyball games throughout the seasons.

Boomwhackers!

Chorus students test out the Boomwhackers, which are "tuned" plastic tubes, for Ms. Labesky, and prove that they're just as much fun for high-schoolers as they are for elementary students.

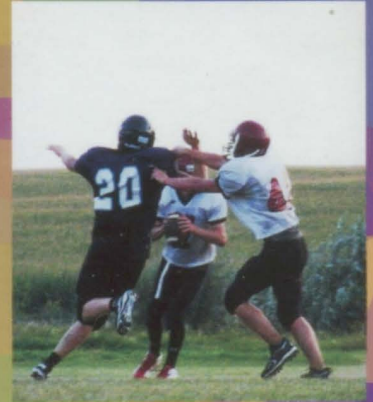

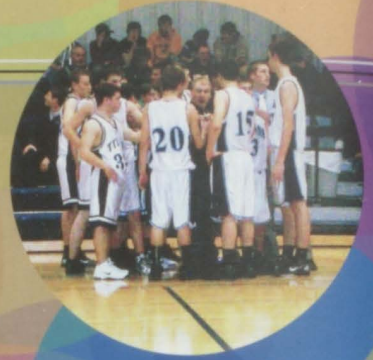

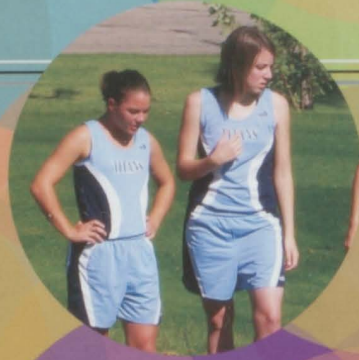

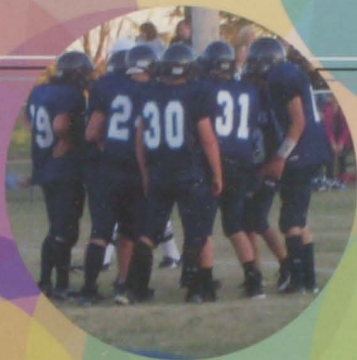

Focus!

Members of the alto sax section anticipate Ms. Labesky's cues during the Christmas concert.

"The Leola-Frederick Titans put up an outstanding 9-2 record this season. This marks the second consecutive season that the Titans were able to capture a Lake Region Conference title. The team's only two losses came to Eureka-Bowdle, and a heart breaker in the semi-finals to a very talented Viborg-Hurley team. The Titans were fortunate enough to land three members to the All-State team. Jamie Taylor earned first team all-state, and Adam Dutenhoffer and Doug Kallas earned Honorable Mention honors. Derek Barondeau and Ty Sumption earned Honorable Mention All-Conference honors, while Jamie Taylor, Doug Kallas, Andrew Hoffman, Tyler Hoffman, Mitch Waltman, and Adam Dutenhoffer earned first team honors. Jamie Taylor was also selected the Offensive MVP for the conference. Great season boys!" said Coach Downes.

Not turning out the way they would have liked, the Titans fell short during their district game against the Groton Tigers. The Titans ended their season with a record of 6-19, including tournaments. Even though the record wasn't the greatest, the Titans did come out with some experiences. Caylee Hertel received All-Tournament player for both the Redfield and Mobridge Tourneys. The younger girls filled more spots with the different rotation strategies. Outside hitter Aly Perry quoted, "This year was very productive. We not only learned a lot from working with the coaches, but also with each other."

<Season Summary> "This year's season was amazing and memorable," reflected senior Breanna Helland. She continued by saying, "It's sad for it to end, but overall, we had a really great year." Highlights of the season included the boys' team bringing home two coveted pieces of hardware--an LRC title and a regional runner-up plaque. After capturing second place at regions, the boys were able to send a full five-person team to state, along with one alternate. Also traveling to state were all three varsity girls, who ended up finishing fourth at the region meet. By the end of the season, all nine varsity runners had lettered.

The Titans ready to play defense.

The Titans Boys Basketball Season ended sooner than the boys were hoping with a record of 6 and 15. Their final game was the first round of districts which was against Aberdeen Roncalli. The team lost by 15 points which was a lot closer of a game than the first time around. Three of the boys basketball players made the All-Conference Team. Tyler Sumption made the first team, Adam Dutenhoffer made the second team, and Brian Sumption made the third team. Ty Sumption had a few thoughts about the season, "This year was a bit of a transition from the past couple of years because of the new coaching staff. As a team we had to learn a new offense and many new plays. We had many close games that we just fell a little short on which makes our record look a lot worse than how we really played. I believe we had a strong team and I know we are much better than what our final record shows. Overall, it was a very fun year and I really enjoyed playing with these guys over the years. We made many memories that I will never forget." Coach Luke Bruns also added, "I was really proud of this year's team for never quitting and always giving 100%. I think all of our players were hard workers and we didn't have any bad attitudes to deal with, there isn't much more a coach could ask for in a team."

Girls Basketball

The team gives high-fives and turkeys as game time approaches.

The Leola-Frederick Lady Titans season ended a little short of how they hoped. The girls ended with a record of 4 wins and 16 losses falling short to Britton-Hecla in the first round of the district tournament. It was a hard loss for many of the girls who were not ready to see their season come to an end so soon. Senior captain Angela Goodall commented, "It was a great learning year for all of us. I was the only returning starter from last year, so as a team we had to learn to work together and become a fist rather than 5 fingers. I had a great year playing with these girls and no matter what anyone says we were much better than our record showed." Goodall was also selected as a third team Lake Region All-Conference Player. Coach Downes also added, "Even though we did not have the greatest record this season, it will be one I will never forget. The girls were great to work with, and I am proud of how each of their skills progressed throughout the year. I look forward to next season and seeing how the girls have progressed throughout the summer and fall."

Track and Field

The 2011 track season did not start off well with the water problems and cold weather, but the team pushed through with hard workouts and great effort. Janelle Barondeau, the girls' coach quoted, "I was very pleased with the effort of the team throughout the year. I also saw some great leadership from our upper classmen." Upper classman Erin Wolter also quoted, "Since this was my last season, I wanted to make it count. Even though we missed quite a few meets, it gave us the incentive to work harder during practice, and it's paid off." State qualifiers for the 2011 track season consisted of Brandon Haas, Austin Minard, Derek Barondeau, Tyler Sumption, Adam Dutenhoffer, Brian Sumption, Kayla Haas, Savana Hinz, Chandler Ellwein and Breanna Helland.

It was also in Pierre where Casson Campbell, Josh Waltman, Victor Fischer and Abby Sumption qualified for the state tournament in Sioux Falls. The 2011 golf season for the Titans ended well as the boys placed as a team in ninth place at the state tournament at Central Valley in Sioux Falls. Casson Campbell placed 29th after shooting a total of 177 for the two days. Dane Campbell got 66th place as he shot a total of 191 during the two days. Victor Fischer ended up in 76th place shooting only three after Dane with a 194. Josh Waltman placed 104th with a total of 104. Abby Sumption was the only girl that qualified for state and she golfed at the Elmwood golf course in Sioux Falls. Abby got 42nd place as she shot a total of 210 for the two days. Assistant Coach Justin Downes said, "This has been a very fun year coaching golf. We won the conference golf meet. Probably the most exciting part was watching the boys win a one hole playoff to win the region golf meet. I am proud of all of our golfers and especially proud of the entire boys' team for making the state tournament and Abby Sumption for qualifying individually for the tournament." Scott Campbell was head coach and Justin Downes assisted.

GOLF 2011

Both girls and boys golf teams took home plaques as they won the Lake Region Conference meet by team scores. The Titan guys led the meet with an overall team score of 272 strokes, and the girls shot a total of 363.

Junior High Sports

From sixth-graders to eighth-graders, this year's junior high athletes brought about new beginnings on several levels. Young athletes in all areas learned the basics of their sports, but something new this year was the eligibility of sixth-graders to participate in track. Nearly the entire class chose to go out for the sport, and they were able to practice with all other track athletes and compete in a few junior high meets. Also making a huge splash on the track scene in the spring were seventh-graders Chandler Ellwein and Savana Hinz. The girls were able to run at state on the medley relay and ended up bringing home eighth-place medals from the meet. Savana explained the experience by saying, "Going to state track was such a huge honor. At first, I was nervous but then I just thought about how far we had already come and getting the seventh spot going into finals was unbelievable! It was definitely a feeling and experience I will carry with me forever." Overall, young competitors liked being in sports. Kyle Kenser, an eighth-grade football, basketball and track athlete, commented, "Junior high sports are a lot of fun, and I think everyone really enjoyed themselves."

Oral Interp

Despite having a new coach, Renae Lehman, and only three girls out for Oral Interpretation, the season proved to be a memorable one. On December 5, 2010 in Aberdeen, Breanna Helland earned her third and final state superior in oratory. "I've had so much fun in Oral Interp., and I will definitely miss it," reflected Breanna on her past four years in the activity. Prior to state, Breanna and teammates Shannen Maunu, senior, and Taryn Flinn, sophomore, competed in the district and region competitions which were held on November 3, 2010 in Aberdeen, and November 16, 2010 in Webster, respectively.

From laughs to improvisation lines, this year's play turned out to be quite a success.

Treachery at Cartilage Creek was presented on March 17, 2011 to both the grade school in the afternoon and the general public in the evening. Casting was completed the first week of March by new teacher Renae Lehman. Cast members consisted of eighth-graders Jacob Ham, Breanna Nordine, and Devin Flinn, freshmen Cole Hinz, Dusty Bergan, and Mariah Mikkonen, sophomore Taryn Flinn, juniors Lela Merabishvili and Aly Perry, and seniors Angela Goodall, Stefani Sumption, and Erin Wolter. The crew was made up of juniors Courtney Schlosser, Keeley Geffre, Faith Wolter, and Levi Christianson.

The 2011 prom theme was Mardi Gras, and it was held Saturday, April 2, 2011. The prom included a total of twenty-nine couples from the junior and senior classes. Dates had to arrive early to get photographed by Ketterling's photography, and later had the choice between chicken and pork for the meal. The grand march started at eight, and the dance followed until midnight. The junior class then brought in inflatables for the post-prom party.

Graduation 2011

Baccalaureate is back! This is the first class in years that has chosen to hold a baccalaureate service. Pastor Galen Sylvester led the service in prayer as he wished the class of 2011 the best of luck. Fourteen of the twenty-two from the graduating class attended this service. Chelsey Zinter and Casson Campbell expressed words of wisdom by reading from the Bible.

"Do not go where the path may lead; go instead where there is no path and leave a trail."

-Ralph Waldo Emerson

Saturday, May 21, 2011, was the day many students had been anxiously awaiting for years. Although most were excited, others experienced mixed feelings about graduation. "I was definitely excited, but also very nervous about college in the fall. It has been a blast watching my class grow up and grow together over the years. I will miss each and every one of my classmates," quoted Krista Stoddard.

The day started off with the chaos of placing balloons and flowers, to the fitting of each other's caps and gowns. Courtney Schlosser and Faith Wolter were academically chosen to assist the senior class as they were the Honor Guards. After Mrs. Elsen played the processional, Mr. Barondeau began the ceremony with the welcome. The senior girls then shared their gift of music, as they sang, "My Time to Shine."

Next, Breanna Helland and Angela Goodall gave their Co-Valedictorian speeches, since they tied for top ranking GPA of the 2011 senior class. Following the speeches was the slide show, "Beginning our Trail," created by Krista Stoddard. After the slide show came the presentation of flowers to the seniors' parents. Finally, the part everyone was anxious for had arrived--the distribution of diplomas! All twenty-two of the graduating class walked across the stage, and new chapters in their lives await.
